Margaret.
I have been a lot of fun this year.
I am very glad to meet
you. I hope that we are in some class next year,
next summer and please, oh!
please! write me!
Love,
Ruthie

Dear
Maggie,
It sure was fabulous this year!
Hope you have a great time this summer with Ray (I know you will)! News got us mixed up. I don't understand that at all, anybody can see I'm either. (ha)
Come on over to Kenwood sometime this summer!
well, I hope I see you sometime soon!
Love ya,
Marybeth

Dear "Dennis,"

we had fun, haven't year, what with this
B.C. activities & then or Saints John's. I'll always remember, the year I was in Don't forget to try out for make it & I sure will know you're having you in "Jim's" (or his) year. You know, you're not with the boys & girls, you're inside the ropes, you're in the "whites" & you're in I'll keep in the "whites" & you're course, you're in the "whites" & you're quite you're in the "whites" & you're I really hope you're in the "whites" & you're really hope you're in the "whites" & you're life, it's not a bad thing to be in the "whites" & you're & & makes it a good thing to be in the "whites" & you're this summer, together, you're in the "whites" & you're
B. & C. & you're in the "whites" & you're any more, together, you're in the "whites" & you're have a nice summer
& good luck & God
Always,
Love,
Dennis

Volume 27

We have Pep! Pep Bands organize spontaneously and the competition for the post of cheerleader is stiff. Even for Tri-Tilt, which is strictly within B-CC, there is no lack of spirit.

We appreciate the world and the opportunity foreign students give us to get our information first hand. In an assembly Karin Laveson from Sweden; Ralph Kissick, master of ceremonies; Keiko Sato from Japan; Joachim Rocke from Germany; and Mariam Panahy, discuss differences a teenager finds.

We're aware of the shrinking globe. Mrs. Garretson helps us gain a concept of distance.

We ride school busses to our world-within-a-world.

HOW DO WE RATE IN '58

Every ten years there is a turn in the tide of events at B-CC! Our high school undergoes the rigors of a grading period! Because we face an evaluation every six weeks, we students watch this rating of our total efforts with a sympathetic eye.

This year, as our accreditors wend their way through classroom, library, record file, and gymnasium, wielding their evaluating pencils, we find ourselves conducting our own impromptu accreditation. There is less tendency on our part to take our school for granted as we examine every phase of school life—the faculty, the students, our activities in and out of school, our teams, and our school spirit. Always before, we've seen the school through eyes dulled by constant association. Now we look at ourselves objectively. What kind of school are we? How do we rate in '58?

Socially Successful

"I studied 'till eleven o'clock last night and I'm beat!"

"Oh. What'd you study? History? History! Do we have a test in history? And a student rushes frantically to find a quiet spot where he can review and fix a few vital facts in his memory.

There's always a test, an assignment due, a book report, a problem. We write research papers, make oral reports, study, and take tests. We choose our subjects carefully and can elect Home Arts, Earth Science, or DE as well as the old standbys of "readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic." We gripe and groan; we study, and learn. We grow up.

Our teachers work to wipe out our weaknesses, teach us how to study, how to express ourselves in speech and in writing. They encourage us to THINK.

Years at B-CC are like the adventure of a small boy who bravely sets out into the cornfield for a romp with Mother Nature and his imagination. The waving corn closes in over his head, blue sky winks between the masses of green. The universe is shut out; he is shut in, into his own private, fascinating world. Winding his way across the field, he stops often—to inspect, to study, or just to lie back and dream a bit. Soon he is on the other side, out into the world, the better for his experience.

We, too, are better for our experience in an academic high school, outside the nation's capital on busy East-West Highway in Bethesda, Maryland.

Decisive Leaders

"The most pleasant, efficient, demanding leader I have ever met" is the description one alumna gave of Mr. William Pyles, principal of Bethesda-Chevy Chase. The truth of those words becomes apparent at our first sophomore assembly when we meet Mr. Pyles and are introduced to the traditions and goals of our school. As our high school career progresses, he becomes our good friend and leader.

Even in as large a school as B-CC, there is a great deal of personal contact between Mr. Pyles and the students, fostering a spirit of cooperation and friendliness. Through his guidance and understanding, problems of any size are soon ironed out. He keeps appointments to the minute, and gives careful attention to the most trivial of duties. These are the little things that mean so much to the efficient running of any school.

There is more than friendliness and efficiency behind B-CC's reputation, however. Mr. Pyles requires and expects the best from every student; meeting his challenge means developing a greater sense of responsibility both toward ourselves and others.

The teachers and counsellors help us, and the pronoun "I" loses first place in our vocabulary. We're encouraged not only to study hard but to play hard. We join clubs, attend dramatic productions and varsity contests, and relax at one of the many dances. We win scholarships, jobs, and college entrance. We're aware of our role at B-CC and realize how important good leadership has been to us.

MR. WILLIAM G. PYLES
Principal

Leaving at the end of the day can mean "getting away" by five-thirty only to attend a meeting at seven. Mr. Pyles says the hours for his job are rather irregular.

During one of the days B-CC is on her schedule, Mrs. Blew, county supervisor, confers with Miss Phelps, sophomore counsellor.

Interested Friends

Long after we've left this ordered existence of admit slips and Early Departure lists, we'll remember the v.p. in charge of attendance and behavior. Vice principal, that is! Mr. Z. sees that a call home verifies our absence or establishes the fact that we are on an involuntary three-day suspension.

Mr. Conlon has the more tedious task of balancing dates and calendar events so that we won't be trying to attend a dance in the same place others are flocking to a basketball game. At the same time, he knows the whereabouts of every key to every room in the school as well as the telephone number of every available substitute for miles around. This year we occasionally had nine per cent of our faculty out with that flu-like virus, or Asian Flu.

Miss Young saw that we received the guidance we needed to choose a college career or plan a life. Providing the necessary link between the administration and the teachers was no easy assignment for the counselling staff as it advised, explained, and kept us on the mark.

Mrs. Blew, county supervisor, supplies the necessary link between the administration and the office of the Board of Education in Rockville, Maryland.

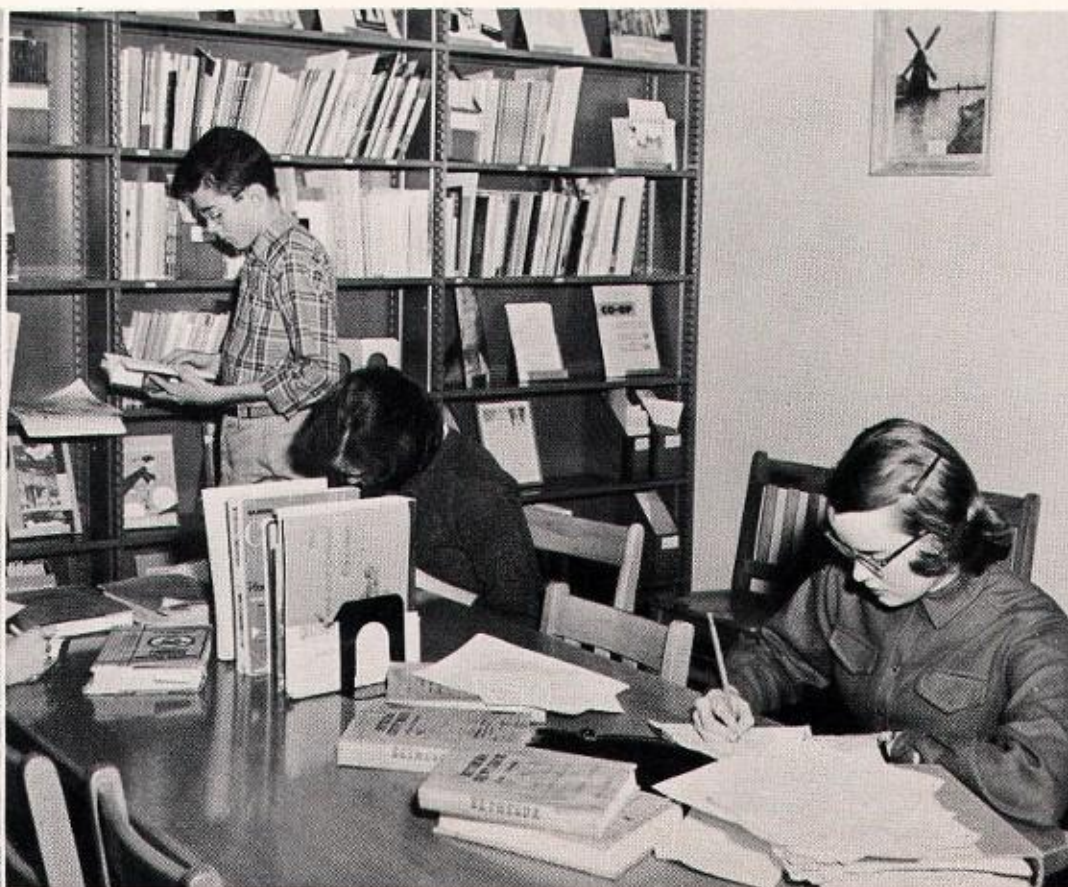

Mr. Zimmerman takes time out from his more serious duties to pass along the latest anecdote to Mrs. Graff and Mrs. Leimbach.

Mr. Zimmerman, Mr. Pyles, Miss Young, and Mr. Conlon meet regularly in administrative council. Decisions made here are reflected throughout the school.

Counsellors Quayle and Norris meet in the hallway outside their offices for a brief consultation between conferences with students and parents.

Whether you study college catalogs, fill out application forms, or wait to see your counsellor, the Browsing Room is the center for After-High School plans. David Kocher and Terry Reber are the identifiable students in the picture.

Catalogs, Counsellors, and Conferences

The opportunity to learn on a gold platter! That's what B-CC hands the entering student! He is given the necessary books, excellent teachers, an adequate school plant; it is up to him to take advantage of what he has to work with and make the most of it. It is with the help of our counsellors that we analyze our desires, our abilities, and our limitations, before we plan just how we may get the most out of our three years at Bethesda.

This year Miss Phelps took the sophomores under her wing, and helped them plan their schedules and out-of-class activities. Given such a smooth start in high school, the tenth graders found it easy to settle down.

Juniors, beginning to feel the hot breath of College Boards and college applications on their necks, consulted Miss Quayle about lunch-hour conferences. With her help they planned their final and most important year, tallying credits and juggling the merits of one course against another.

The seniors needed Mr. Norris, not only for last-minute advice on college applications, but also to help keep them sane during the Long Wait until acceptances or rejections arrived. He became their most important link between the reality of high school and the uncertainty of next year.

Books and Files

"Peace and quiet," sighs the overworked student, settling into a library chair for a period of quiet study. Mrs. McKinnell is working at her desk; Miss Owen is behind the partition typing a book list; library assistants move quietly around replacing books. Two minutes later the peace is shattered as a class invades the library, seeking reference books, magazines, and a place to sit.

For the frustrated student the solitude is gone, but for the librarians it's all in a day's work. Until four o'clock they are on hand to answer questions, explain the use of catalogs and files, and find the unfindable. Any extra time is spent checking inventories and compiling lists of recommended reading. There are mountains of work to be done before the library will be ready to be moved to its new location in the "fourth building" which is still in the blueprint stage. Until that time, the students can envy those future scholars who will be able to do their research above ground, while Mrs. McKinnell and Miss Owen may dream, as they work, of spacious shelves, plenty of elbow-room, and perhaps a book or two returned ahead of time.

English — We Live, Learn, and Enjoy

Sailing along under the philosophy that "Writing maketh a perfect man, but so does reading and discussion," the English Department offers courses ranging from the mandatory English 2, 3, and 4 to journalism.

As sophomores we delve into the mysteries of Shakespeare and George Eliot, live for a while in the Scottish Highlands with Sir Walter Scott, and try our hand at some writing of our own.

For poised and polished speaking, the future politician or P.T.A. chairman will ask for public speaking or dramatics, in addition to the regular course covering American literature and the ever-present grammar and spelling.

Entering our senior year we again become friends with Shakespeare, meeting his "melancholy Dane" and the ambitious Scot. As we begin to recognize the wealth of good literature in the classics, and the truth in the ideas of great writers, English becomes less of drudgery and more of a fascinating exploration into the timeless world of the minds of men. We no longer wonder why we have to take English all four years.

Shakespeare is the order of the day in Mrs. Stanley's sophomore class.

One question at a time is bad enough, but Mrs. Day finds that she is frequently expected to answer five at once.

Adventures in Reading and Writing

English should be renamed! The subject covers reading and spelling, writing and speaking; and we seemed unable to reach success in all fields at all times. This year the English department inaugurated a series of standardized tests to help us detect the areas of our greatest strengths and weaknesses. The testing program was also designed to help in the selection of students for the Rapid Learner courses. We read widely; we listened carefully; we tried to write with coherence, emphasis, and clarity.

With so much attention being given to science and so much stress being placed on the importance of higher mathematics, the English department felt a need to reach a "golden mean", to re-establish the balance between science and the humanities in high school. The National Council of Teachers of English announced a contest for students of English and George Washington University sponsored a contest for English students, inviting schools of the Greater Metropolitan Area to participate. We entered each contest and hoped.

Past Is Prologue

It has often been said that the key to the future is the past; how well Bethesda students realize that fact is shown by the great interest taken in the social studies program throughout high school. It may well be that our proximity to the nation's capital, so steeped in complex national and international issues, is responsible for this interest. Living so close to the wheels that turn the great machine of American Democracy, we find ourselves deeply and personally interested in the problems discussed so gravely by our leaders. We see and hear history in the making. As a result, social studies discussion groups are by no means limited to the classroom; many a classroom discussion has continued in the cafeteria over sandwiches and milk, or in the Hot Shoppe over a Mighty Mo.

Our interest in world affairs carries over from the usual courses in World History and U. S. History to ones in Pan American History and Far Eastern Affairs. Open to seniors only, these courses of one semester each complement and add detail to our previous years of history.

From Atoms to Anatomy—Modern Ideas

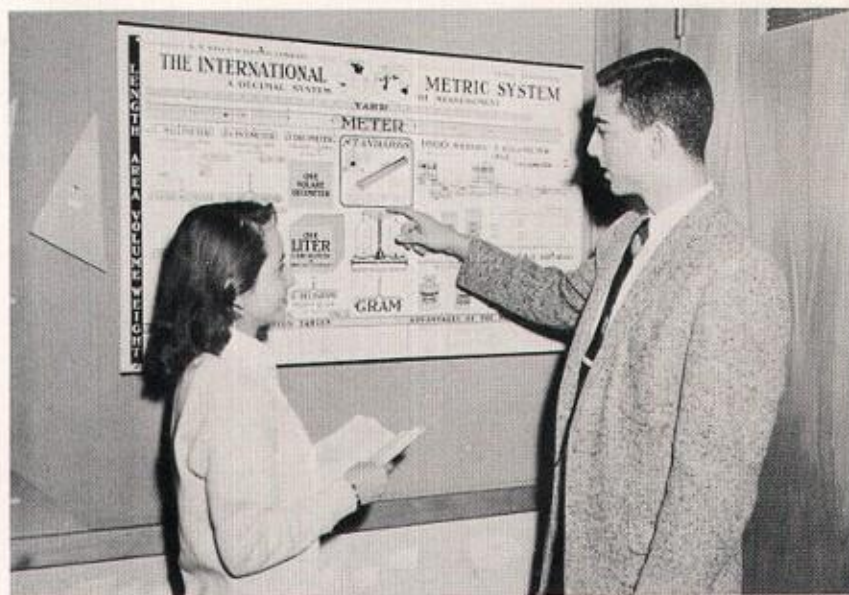

Worlds of test tubes, atoms, ohms, and phyla are discovered every year by our science students. Plunging deep into the mysteries of the molecular composition of matter and nursing hot test tubes become a matter of course to our chemists; their counterparts in Biology II think nothing of toting home the remains of a former tomcat for more detailed study.

Biology I students encounter a course somewhat tamer, but just as fascinating. Making its debut this year, earth science presents an entirely new field of study in geology. Physics and advanced science reveal the scientific world even further. Having run the gauntlet of ions, inclined planes, generators and prisms, we begin to understand what makes man and his world.

Students arrange an exhibit in the earth science room.

Read, Listen, Write, Speak — Understand

In these days of dwindling distances, the average American is coming to understand the importance of being able to meet his foreign friends on their own language level. Knowing that it is necessary to understand a country's customs as well as its language, B-CC language teachers base their instruction on the country's way of life as well as on the essentials of vocabulary and syntax. Our proximity to so many embassies and their willingness to help us make our language courses.

We become acquainted with Rome's history and its men of letters. Interest in the Romance languages also runs high; emphasis is placed on conversation as well as grammar and customs of Spain and France. A language lab, equipped with tape recorders and earphones, has been installed for the use of all language classes. Started as an experiment in Montgomery County schools, the language lab at B-CC has proved especially interesting and beneficial.

Language Lab provides an opportunity for each student to hear and practice without interrupting other students. Miss Sullivan moves around the classroom, giving students individual instruction.

Keeping Physically Fit — Constant Battle

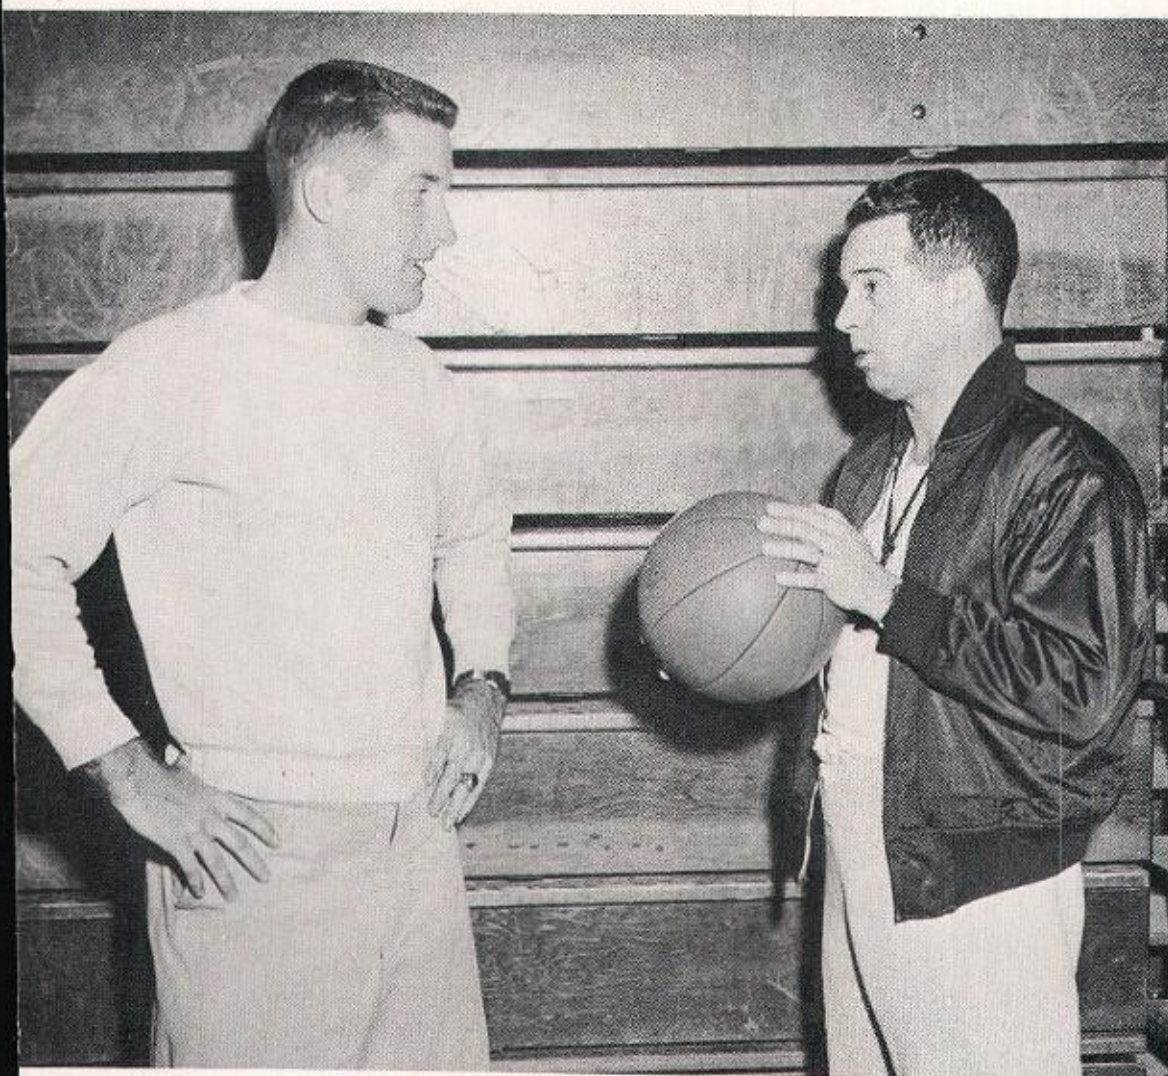

A welcome break in the middle of a jam-packed day is the trot down to the gym for an hour of physical instead of mental exercise.

While the summer breezes are still lingering around the athletic fields, soccer balls and footballs fly from goal to goal, and stray dogs on the archery hill wager their existence against the skill of a class of female Robin Hoods. Winter forces the girls inside to practice teamwork and techniques on the basketball court, and later to develop muscles as well as tumbling skills on the tumbling mats in the corridor.

The boys, oblivious to all kinds of weather, carry on a rugged outdoor program covering sports from football in the fall to baseball and track in the spring and, incidentally, turning out many varsity players. The ideals of sportsmanship and teamwork acquired now will benefit us the rest of our lives.

Mr. Doane and Mr. Judkins discuss the record of the varsity and JV basketball teams. They served as special coaches reporting each afternoon to work out with the squads.

Bill Shorrock hadn't realized the possibilities of the elements of Plane Geometry until Mr. Baish and Judy Freeman pointed them out.

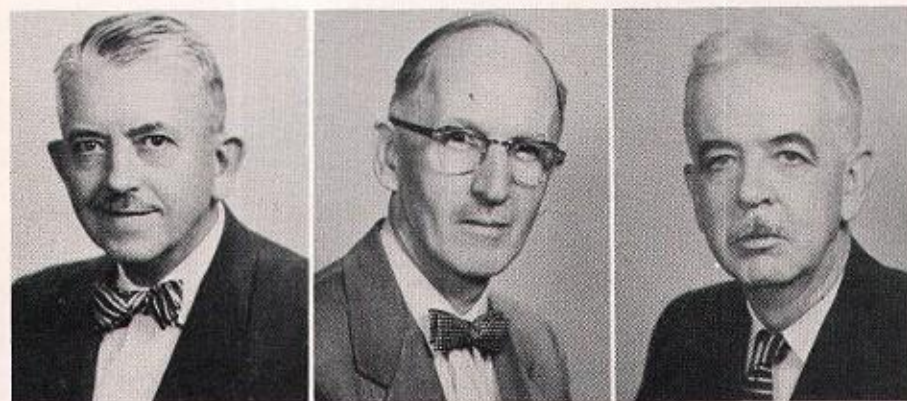

Mr. Woolford adjusts the transit for Alice Bryant while Les Higbie, book in hand, waits his turn.

Math — The Key to a Modern World

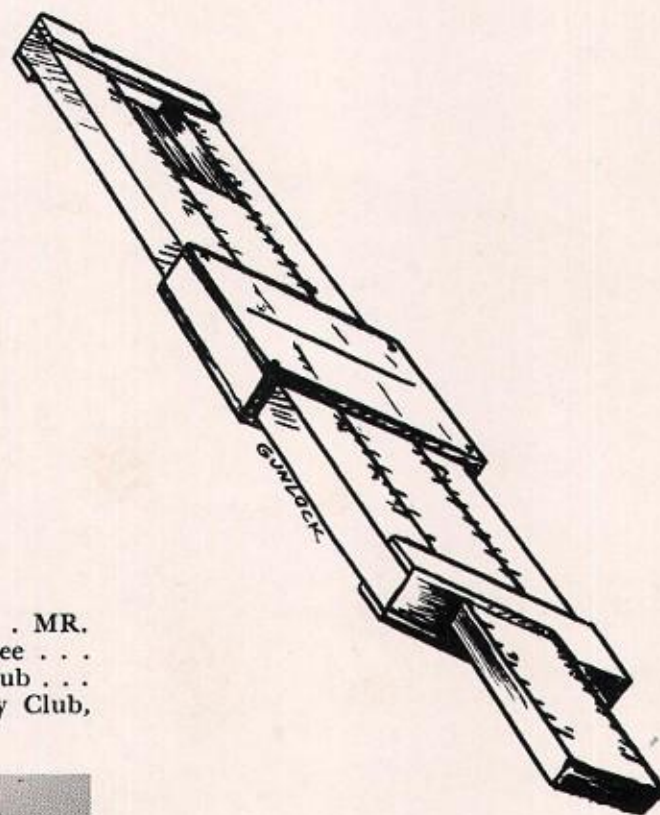

Satellites and rocket ships and the world struggle for scientific supremacy—these current events are constant reminders of the importance of mathematics. Here at Bethesda-Chevy Chase, however, we need no reminder. From the commercial math to the rapid learner solid geometry and trigonometry classes, both the future scientist and homemaker realize the various important roles that mathematics will play in later life. We take advantage of the excellent instructors and course offerings at Bethesda to obtain the best possible background for the future. We also find the time to complain about its difficulty!

Gain Careers In The Business World

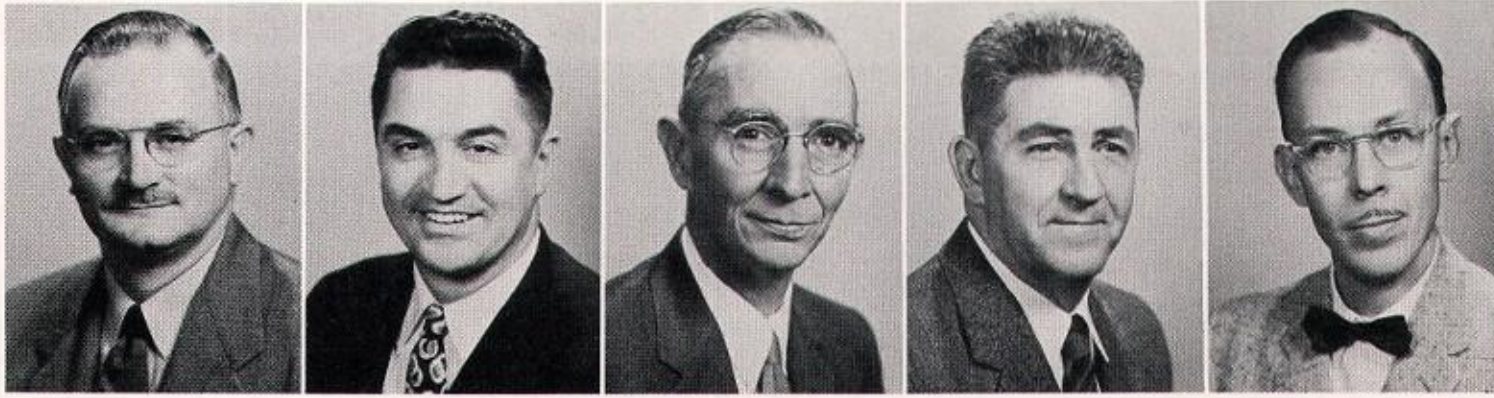

"Miss Moore, may we borrow one of your girls to work in the office this period?" It's an all-familiar request to many commercial students who are planning for a career in the business world. Nothing develops proficiency in any activity as well as practice, and the students behind the high bank counter or facing the early-morning crowd at the school store will be the first to agree. Actual "out-in-the-world" experience is available to the Diversified Education students, seniors who attend school for three periods in the morning and work in town during the afternoon under their employer's supervision.

The common meeting point of Commercial and non-commercial students occurs over the typewriter, where both bend to the task of training errant fingers to obey their owner and find satisfaction in the triumph of "mind over matter". We find final satisfaction in that summer job which came because of our typing skill.

Earl Toone, Susan Selke, Rita Zima, Mrs. Ravin, Gloria Halow, and Jo Johnson pose in a demonstration of the range of activities covered by the Commercial Department.

Our Busy Hands And Blending Voices

Preparing to etch a design on metal requires as much concentration as writing an English theme.

Mr. Mason checks details of a blueprint with Paul Fletcher, Louis Rosen, and Robert Guthrie.

Leslie Rosin molds a vase on the potter's wheel under Miss Sheehan's watchful eye. Glazing and firing come much later.

Bob O'Connell, Bruce Lockhart, Dick Krafur, Mr. Motovich, Glen Ruggles, Sylvia Warren, and Tom Tadlock concentrate on producing semi-abstracts in painting.

Practice To Develop Skills And Talents

Ever since childhood, when we discovered that we had a special ability to harmonize in a singing group, or catch a friend's likeness with pencil and paper, we've been encouraged by our parents and teachers to work with and develop that talent. We are still working and practicing—in the A Cappella Choir, our voices blending with a hundred others; in the band or the orchestra, marching at game half-time, or playing for a P.T.A. meeting, we give and receive pleasure.

In the Arts Building, artistic hands sketch, paint, work with paper or soft clay, and give form to ideas and images conceived in artistic minds. Our creativity carries over into the home arts rooms, where a girl with a bit of material, a needle and thread, and a streak of originality can create lovely clothing. Stronger hands work with metals and woods, heavy machines, to produce graceful trays, lovely jewelry, or household objects. Every burst of creativity nurtures a talent that grows.

Mrs. Smith tallies the returns on our Personality Blanks and prepares the transcripts we hope will get us into college.

Communications —

In the early, early morning hours, when many a sleepy-eyed student is just beginning to think about getting up, our front office personnel are on their way to a hard, nine-hour day behind the main desk in the Ad building. Well-supplied with information, advice, and innumerable file systems, our secretaries brave barrages of students, inquisitive visitors, and frantic parents trying to get a forgotten lunch to their Susie or Johnny before lunch time. Somewhere in between making phone calls and answering questions, the secs find time for the tedious and top-secret job of keeping the permanent record files and personality blanks accurate and up-to-date.

It's in the late fall that the office really begins to buzz, though. College applications come pouring in from every senior, and each one means that transcripts must be compiled and sent post-haste in all directions. An average of three transcripts for each of the 476 seniors gives a rough idea of the number of hands three secretaries could easily use. Fast on the heels of the transcript rush comes a flood of registration cards from the juniors and sophomores. More results to be tabulated, more cards to be filed, and the paper work piles up and up and up. Did we say we had work to do?

PATTERSON, Dietitian.

And Comforts

Existence on ice cream and milk is a thing of the past! Mrs. Patterson, new to the school this year as our dietitian, has the key to the secrets of young peoples' appetites. She plans light breakfasts for the early birds who dash off to school without eating and serves the kind of lunches that breaks down the will-power of the most resolute "dieter."

If, however, even the cafeteria loses its attractiveness and we have that sneaky feeling that Something Is Not Quite Right Inside, a quick trip to Mrs. Carnvale in the nurse's office either confirms our suspicions or sends us on to the test we haven't cracked a book for. In any case, no matter what the ailment, the healing that takes place in the nurse's office is often both the physical and the emotional kind.

For minute-to-minute comfort we depend upon Mr. Howard, the man who not only regulates the shivering status of 1700 people in the fall and winter, but also sees to it that lights light, doors open, and blowers operate all year round.

Joyce Trittipoe and Susan Hall keep the records in the nurse's office during third period.

Mr. Howard supervises the repairing of a light in the hallway.

Cafeteria workers and student helpers are kept busy replenishing the food supply.

Miss Young was presented with the 1958 Humanitarian Award of the Lt. Harold E. Greenberg Post of the Jewish War Veterans at a special breakfast ceremony. Mr. Harold Glassman, chairman of the group's Special Awards Committee, is shown congratulating Miss Young.

Mr. Taylor proves by his appearance that teaching is enjoyable.

A Planning Period Or Coffee Break —

Using the cafeteria as a short cut and carrying books was not only required of students but also teachers. Each day Miss Cooke changed classrooms at the end of the second hour.

Coffee in the lounge meant "brew by Nell" on a Pay-as-you-Sip System. Some days the demand required the making of a fresh pot before noon.

Mr. Williamson, Mr. Bryant, and Mr. Killen relax in the lounge. The most recently purchased library books and the latest magazines are available for teachers' use.

When a cat wandered into the art room and curled up in an open drawer, Mr. Motovich welcomed the addition. The cat liked its new home well enough to be placed on the roll as George Rembrandt, a regular scholar.

A Chance To Sit And Relax Awhile

Mrs. Greene, Mr. Dalla Santa, and Miss Blades relax over coffee and cokes during a planning period.

To The Work, Fun — Friendships Won

For eleven years we worked and waited for this twelfth and final year. It's been a year filled with new freedoms—attending class meetings instead of sitting in home room waiting for the seniors to finish their business; finding comfortable seats at basketball games five minutes before the rest of the school charged in; ruling the school with an iron hand for two days, and liking it.

It's also been a year filled with responsibility far outweighing all the privileges. We had grades to keep up and homework to do, College Boards to take, applications to send, and a good example to set for the rest of the school. No wonder graduation brings relaxation to the seniors who were expected to do more, better, and faster, than ever before.

We'll miss B-CC and the years of work, of study, of play, of romance, of high school!

We'll miss the friendly policeman who stopped traffic on East-West Highway to let us come to school safely.

Mrs. Greene introduced practical experience in a greenhouse to Biology I students. The greenhouse was willed to a school of Montgomery County by Dr. Edwin Broome.

Those Blair games we'll miss too. Blue and gold days, pep rallies in the quad, and bonfires would go on without us.

Lee Stuckey and Patty Surine appeared in the Talent Assembly. They survived the tryouts.

The annual choir concert in the Washington Cathedral was portrayed in the display case. Marcia Lee helped arrange the dolls in the choir room after the display was moved from the Administration Building.

Now We're Coming Into Our Own

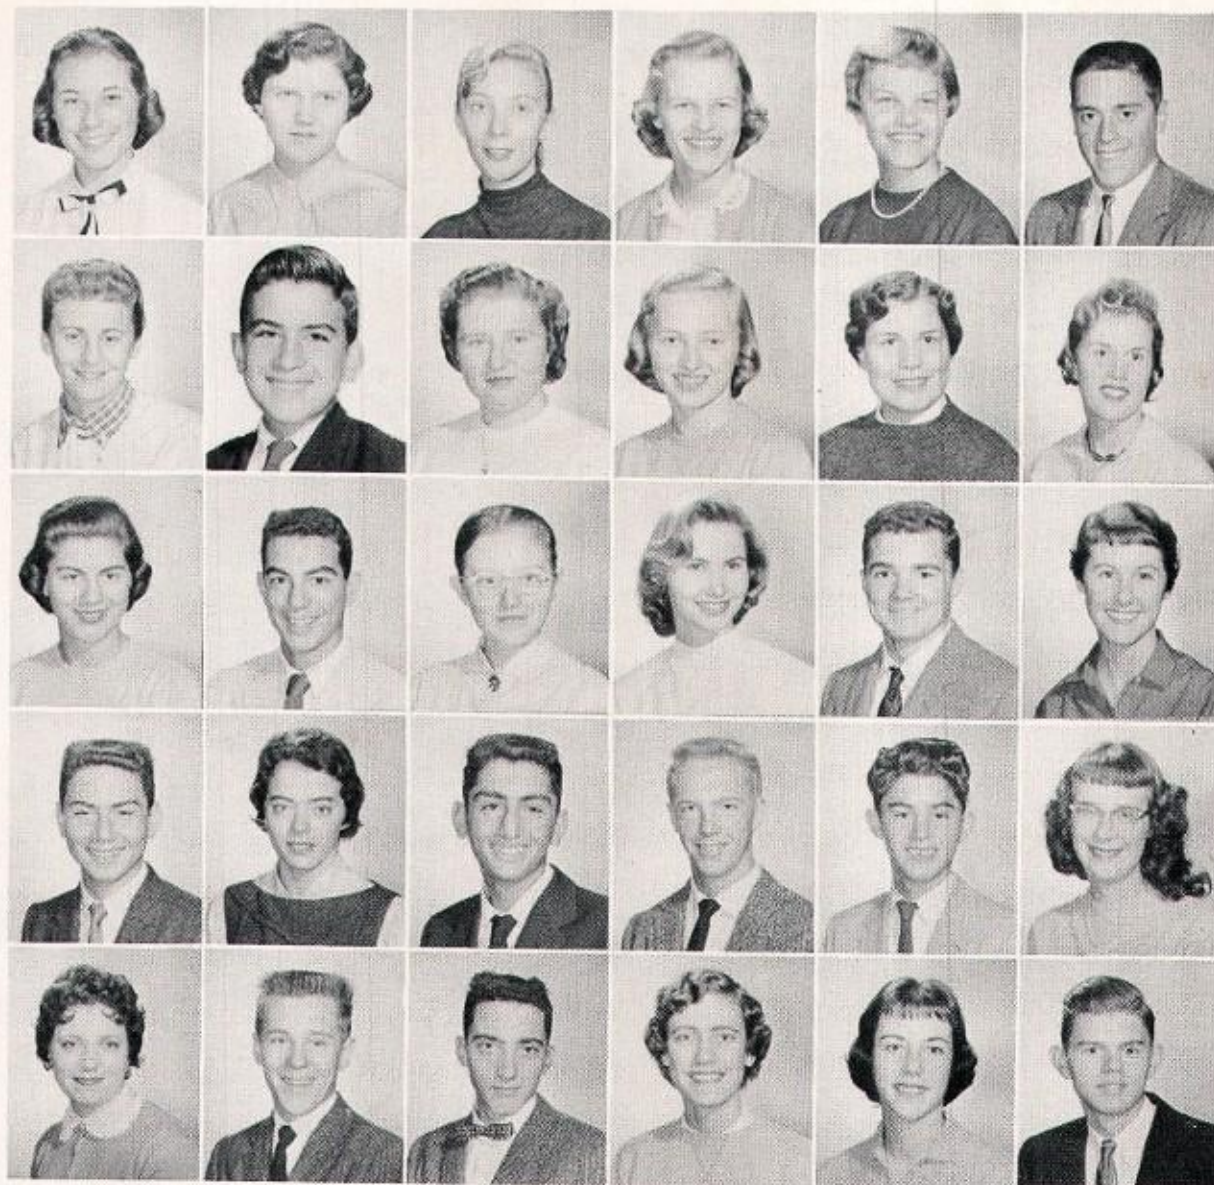

Oh, to be a junior again! The year of happy mediums when all runs so smoothly—right smack down the middle of the road. Worries are for the seniors and for the sophomores. We found the liberty that makes school life casual. We knew the places to go and the things to see.

We knew the clubs to join and the people to vote for. With no basic responsibilities, we mixed pleasure with business and kept both on an even keel. Smiling at the year behind us and dreaming of the year ahead, we went our carefree way. Yes, happy is the junior! Blessed is the junior!

The Year Is Gone—The Record Made

Juniors who did not have individual pictures taken were Linda Hughes, Ray Jones, Melissa Hudson, and Robert Borth.

SOPHOMORE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—W. Augustus Smith, historian; Anna Sol, secretary; William Payne, president; Mary Fisher, vice-president; Patricia Nimro, chaplain; John Kissick, treasurer.

One Year Behind — Just Two More Ahead

Confounded by the tangle of cards-to-be-filled-out on the first day of school, confused by stairways that said "Up" when we wanted to go down, unconditioned for sixty-second dashes across a drippy quad, we sophomores had a lot of adjusting to do. With our fresh appreciation for everything we found our place and soon showed that we had more school spirit than either of the other classes! This was the year of widening horizons—from social goals to personal ones, from home life to school and the world.

Athletically Energetic

We chant, "Barons will be Victorious!" The cheerleaders say, "Not will be. They are!" The die-hard "grandstand coach" grumbles, "Hope they will be 'cause they aren't now." But whether the teams win or lose, there is one thing that Bethesda can always say, "The Barons did their best."

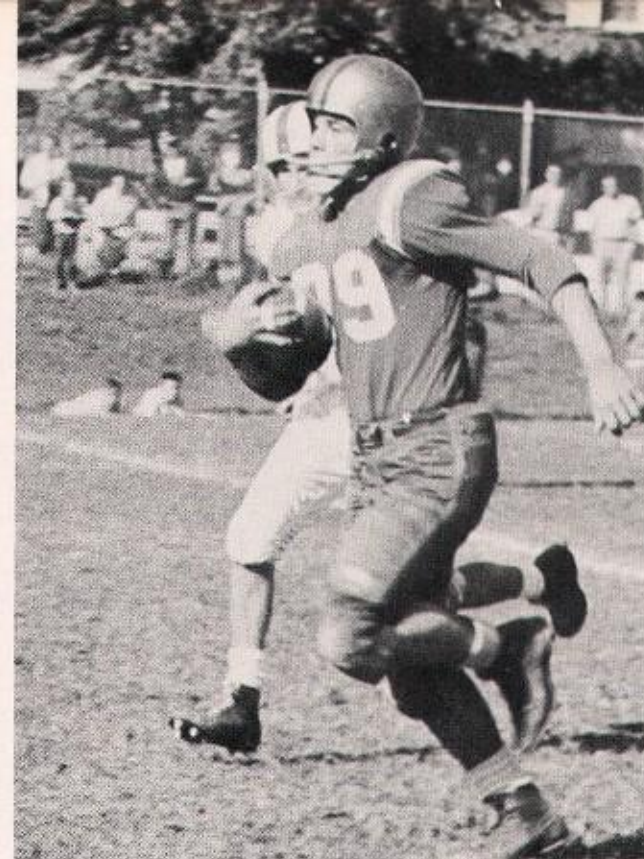

All Bethesda, the athletes and the rest of us, looks forward to the games: football in the fall, basketball in the winter, then track and baseball in the spring. As game time approaches, school spirit runs high—the Cheerleaders, the Band, the Major-ettes, and the Pom Pon Team lead us in showing our appreciation. Afterwards, we leave, happy with vivid memories of the friends we saw, of the game, the cheering, and the winning or the losing.

Nothing was more exciting than a close basketball game with Blair. The lead went back and forth, first Bethesda was ahead, then Blair. The gym was packed to the rafters which vibrated with cheers so loud that you couldn't have heard yourself think if you had wanted to. The Barons grabbed the ball and scored a quick two points, and though it didn't seem possible, you were cheering louder than before. The cheerleaders shouted, "Who are you rootin' for?" and you responded with the only possible answer—"BARONS".

Through victories and occasional defeats, the Barons learn the importance of skill, spirit, and sportsmanship. Through the close ties between rooters and athletes, appreciation spreads throughout the school.

Skill and Determination Make Barons

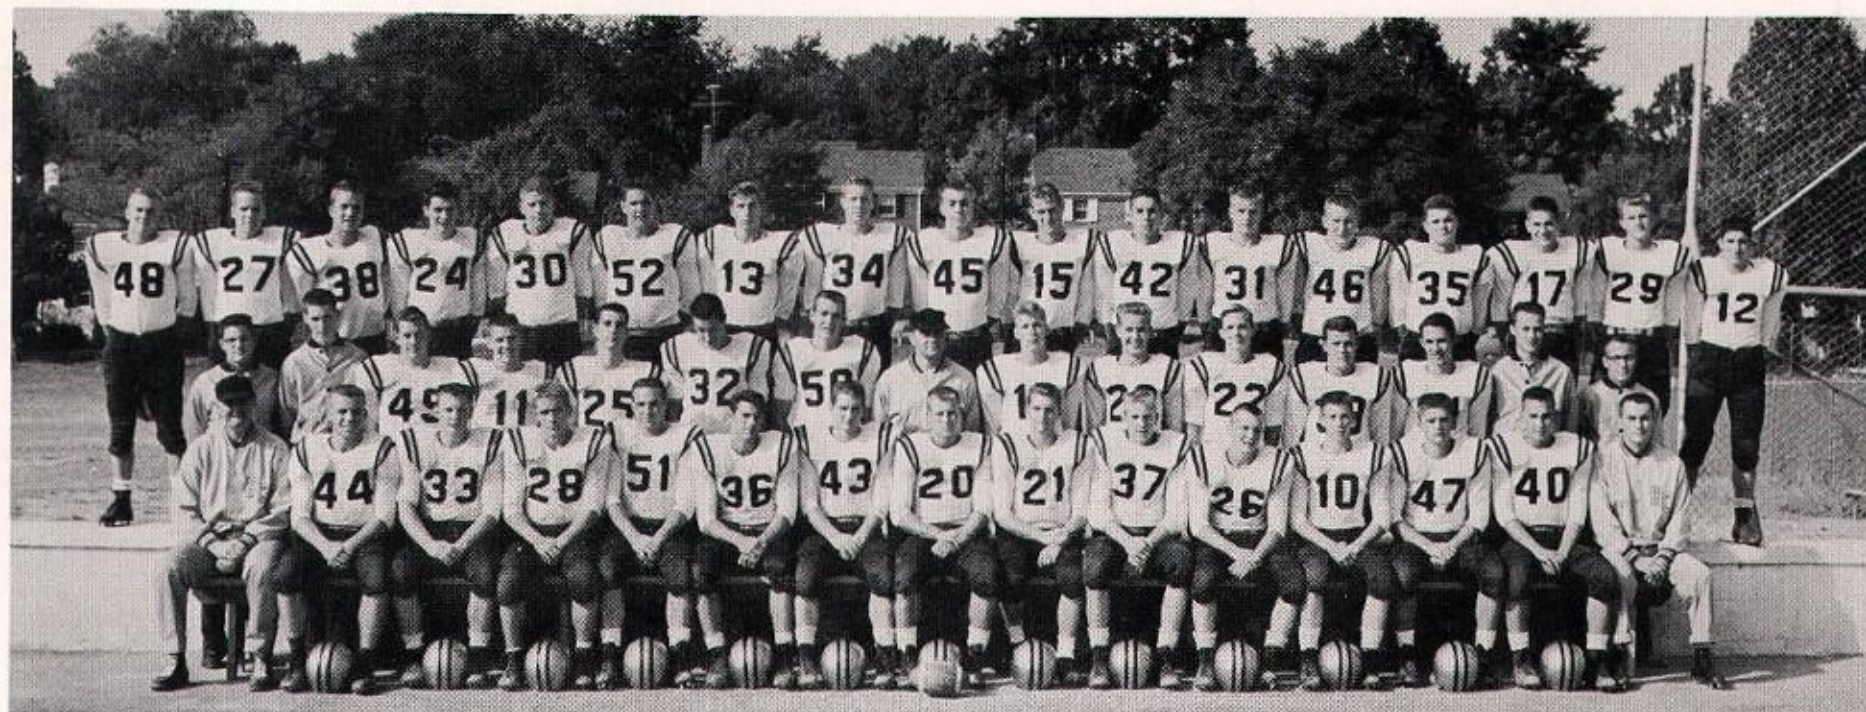

With memories of last year's team still fresh in the minds of everyone, the Football Barons entered the 1957 season. The previous year, the top ranked Blue and Gold had been undefeated, untied, and the first Bi-Country team to top a Group I Northern Virginia team. Even bigger things were expected for the 1957 Barons as they ran onto the field for their first game.

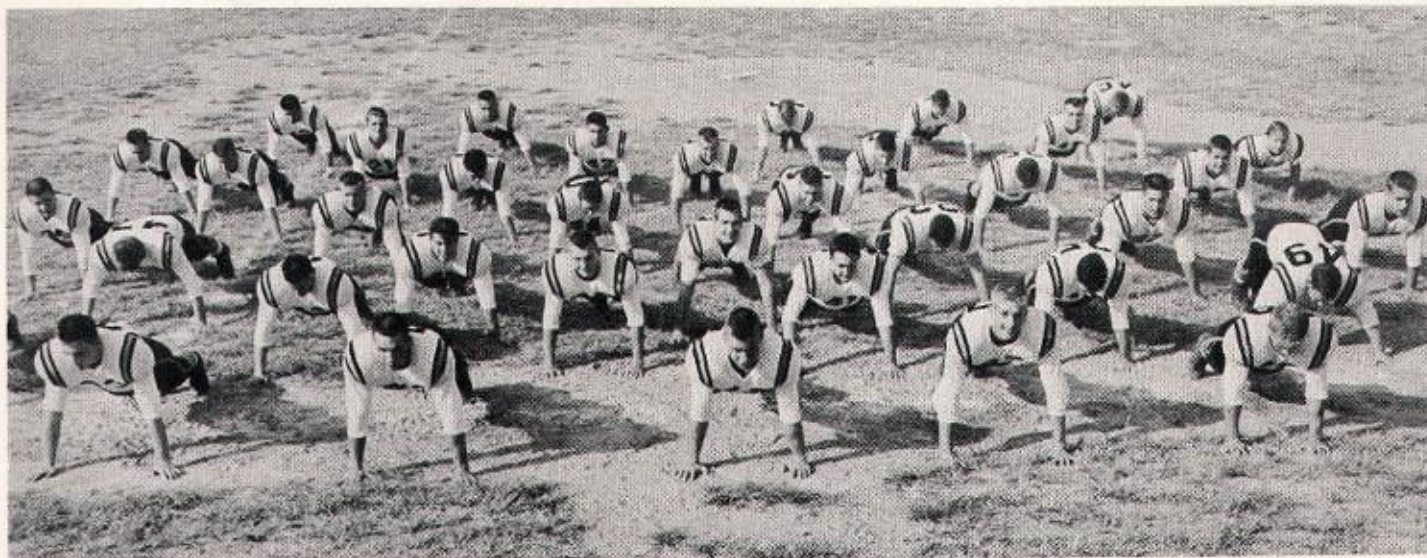

The Bethesda Gridmen opened the season against the powerful Northern Virginia team, Wakefield. A stiff defense that resulted in several Warrior errors coupled with a powerful offense added up to a 38-0 victory for the Barons.

The following week the High Point Eagles put up a tremendous fight. We led 6-0 at half time in one of the closest games of the season. In the last period the Eagles' Fred Slaugh scored on a thirty-five yard run and made good the conversion.

With High Point leading and time running out, a stunned Bethesda crowd began to fear for the team. With few minutes remaining, a desperate Neal McDuffie lateralled to Kenny Smith who carried the ball for a first down deep in Eagle territory. Seconds later, Bob Bryan crossed the golden strips for the ball game.

Hours of work and practice go in to making a championship team. The Barons run through a drill before a big game.

Bi-County Champs

The following week, the Barons met Northwestern for a night game on the Wildcats' home field. An aroused Bethesda Eleven rolled over the Wildcats for a 50-6 triumph. Ken Smith, Neal McDuffie, and Jim Carone combined forces to lead Bethesda against Suitland the next Saturday. The Barons completely outplayed the Rams and walked away with a 34-6 victory.

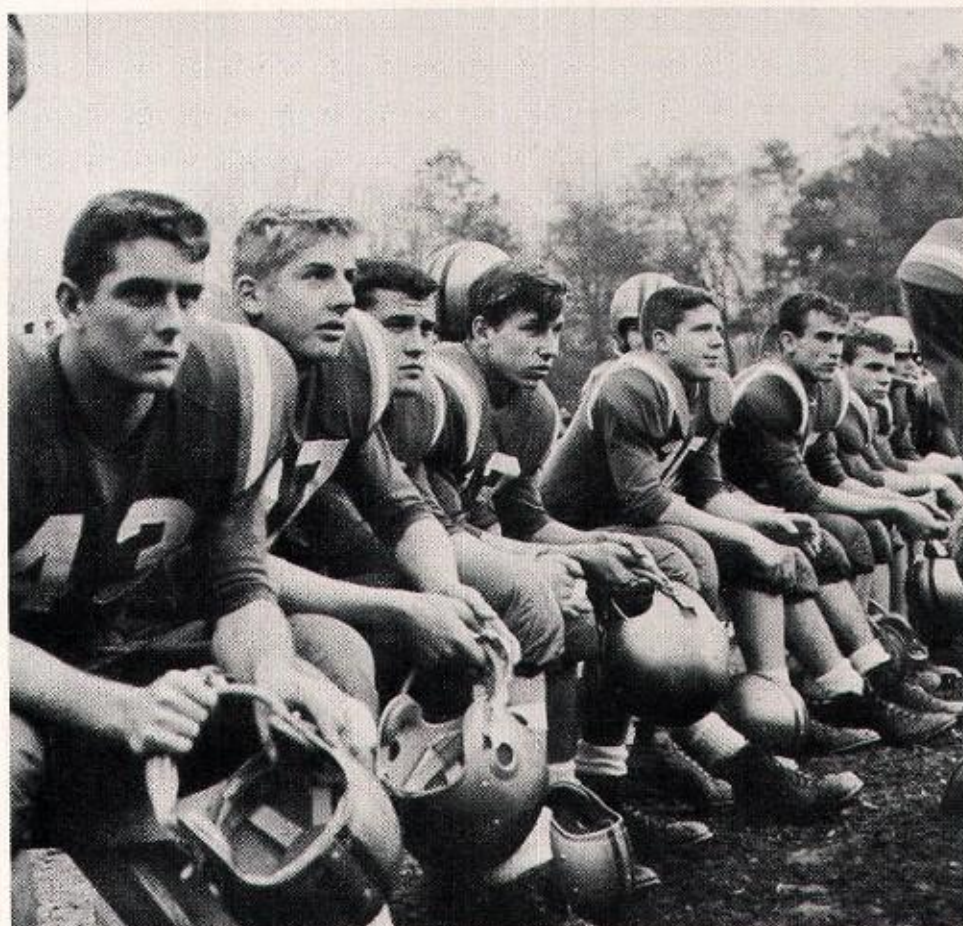

By far the easiest game the Barons played was a home game with Bullis on October 18. Kenny Smith scored five times to lead the Blue and Gold in a 59-0 smear of the hapless Admirals.

The Barons returned to Northwestern stadium for their next game as Neal McDuffie and Ken Smith, dubbed the "Twin Bombshells" by the Washington Post and Times Herald, led our rampaging team to a 32-0 victory over Bladensburg. The following Saturday at home, the Blue and Gold ran over a badly battered Wheaton Eleven to the tune of 27-0. It seemed as though no one could stop us.

Nevertheless, someone did, and the honor fell to the Spartans of Walter Johnson. Somehow the Barons, who were plagued by fumbles, never got going, and the game ended 13-6, in favor of the undefeated Spartans.

But the Barons proved that they were real champions the following week in the big game of the season. The Barons fought all the way as they routed their traditional rivals, the Blazers of Montgomery Blair, and won the Bi-County title. It was evident from the beginning of the game that the previously undefeated Blazers were being outplayed at every turn.

Early in the second period, Quarterback Carl MacCartee, crossed the goal line for the Baron's first score. The conversion was good.

The Bench studies the situation attentively during the Blair Game—this was the big one.

Coach Sadusky gives Dave Campbell instructions for an important play in the Blair game.

Browning is finally brought down after a long gain against Blair.

Mike O'Hara closes in on Charlie Pryor, speedy Blazer back.

The Blair Game—

When Blair finally got the ball, they found themselves stymied and were forced to kick from their own forty-three. The Barons again rose to the attack. Runs by Bob Harris and Neal McDuffie set up the touchdown. Kenny Smith pounded through the Blair line soon after to score our second touchdown.

The scoring came easier afterwards. Ken Smith ran back a punt forty-nine yards for a score. The Barons also scored on pass plays to Mike O'Hara and Bob Harris. Throughout the day the crashing Baron line battered the Blazers, blocking and tackling with vengeance. Blair scored late in the fourth quarter when Charlie Pryor recovered a fumbled punt and carried the ball over the goal line on an end run a few plays later. The Blazers picked up one more when Tommy Brown scored on a seventy-six yard kick-off return.

By the end of the game there was little doubt in the minds of the 10,000 spectators who flowed out of Blair Stadium as to who had won the game. Their spirits high, Baron rooters honked their way back to B-Town and by the next morning, everyone knew the score, 31-12, and that Bethesda was once again Bi-County champion.

As the season had progressed, our ratings had gone higher and higher, until we reached No. 1 spot in all major papers. Although the Walter Johnson defeat dropped us to a fourth place, our comeback against Blair resulted in our regaining the top position in the Washington Post and Times Herald.

Ken Smith returns a punt 49 yards for a B-CC tally.

Jim Carone manages a short gain before going down under the attack of two Blazers.

A Wakefield Warrior comes up from behind to prevent fleet Neal McDuffie from scoring.

Coach, Team, Pep, Steam, And Victory

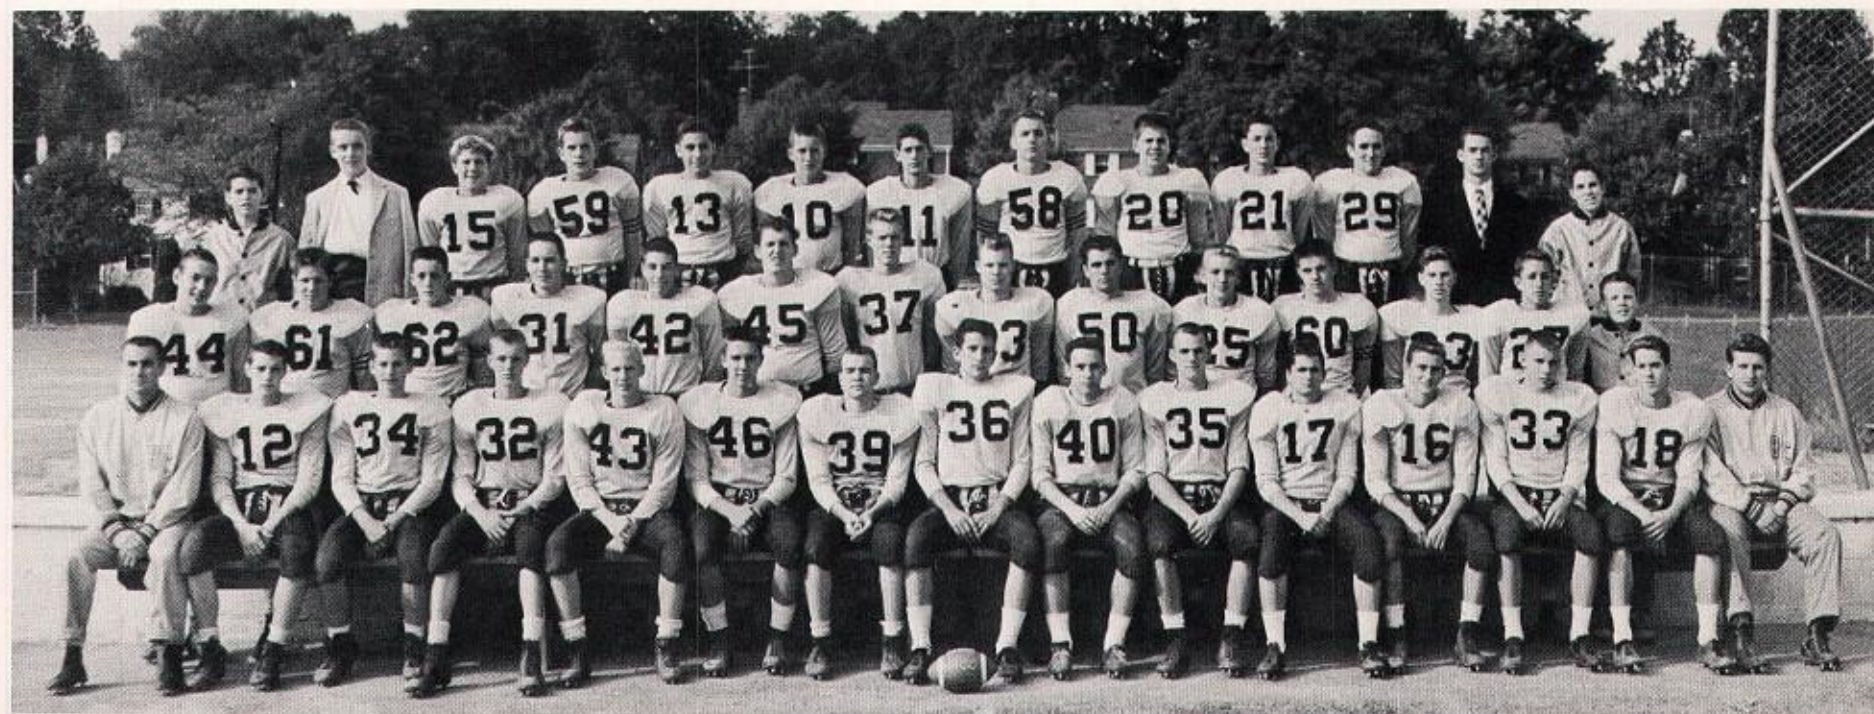

Various honors came to individual players during the year. Dave Campbell and Ken Smith were both Washington Post and Times Herald Players-of-the-Week. Ken Smith easily clinched the fullback spot on the first string All-Metropolitan team, while Mike Reese made second string tackle, Pete Cook made third string center, and Jack Schmidtman made fourth string guard. All of these men made the first Bi-County team, while Neal McDuffie made the second team.

The Junior Varsity compiled a record of four wins and five losses for the season. High scorers for the Barons were Dave Karr with 24 points, Ned Lee with 18 points, and Jim Kelly and Tom McGarry with 13 points each.

Barons Lack Height But Display Spirit

The basketball season arrived and with it came speculation. The Barons had eleven lettermen returning, four of whom played on the first team last year. Under the previously successful coaching of Weymouth Judkins, it appeared that the Barons were to become a power. One factor was missing. Bethesda lacked the height for rebounding. The first team barely averaged six feet.

As practice sessions began, over sixty boys tried out for the varsity. After a week of observation, Coach Judkins cut his team to a practical size securing mostly experienced players, eleven of whom were seniors.

After just two weeks of preparation, the Barons opened their schedule against the Washington-Lee Generals. The game remained very close and when the final buzzer sounded, the score was deadlocked. In the overtime period, W-L pulled ahead and finally won 42-38. Bethesda students quickly realized that their team was wanting in height.

Bethesda dropped the first game of the season to Washington-Lee, 38-42. Bob Bryan and Bucky Brumbaugh unsuccessfully attempt to block a lay-up.

Guard Bob Windsor displays the shooting concentration which helped him lead the Barons in total scoring.

Chris Bradley and Bob Bryan enjoy dominating the backboards, as B-CC romped over High Point, 56-29.

A Tough Schedule

The following Tuesday afternoon, the cagers opposed Wakefield, the future Northern Virginia champs. B-CC displayed confidence and good teamwork as they built a 22-21 lead at intermission. However, the Barons faced stiffer competition during the second half and succumbed to a 52-40 defeat.

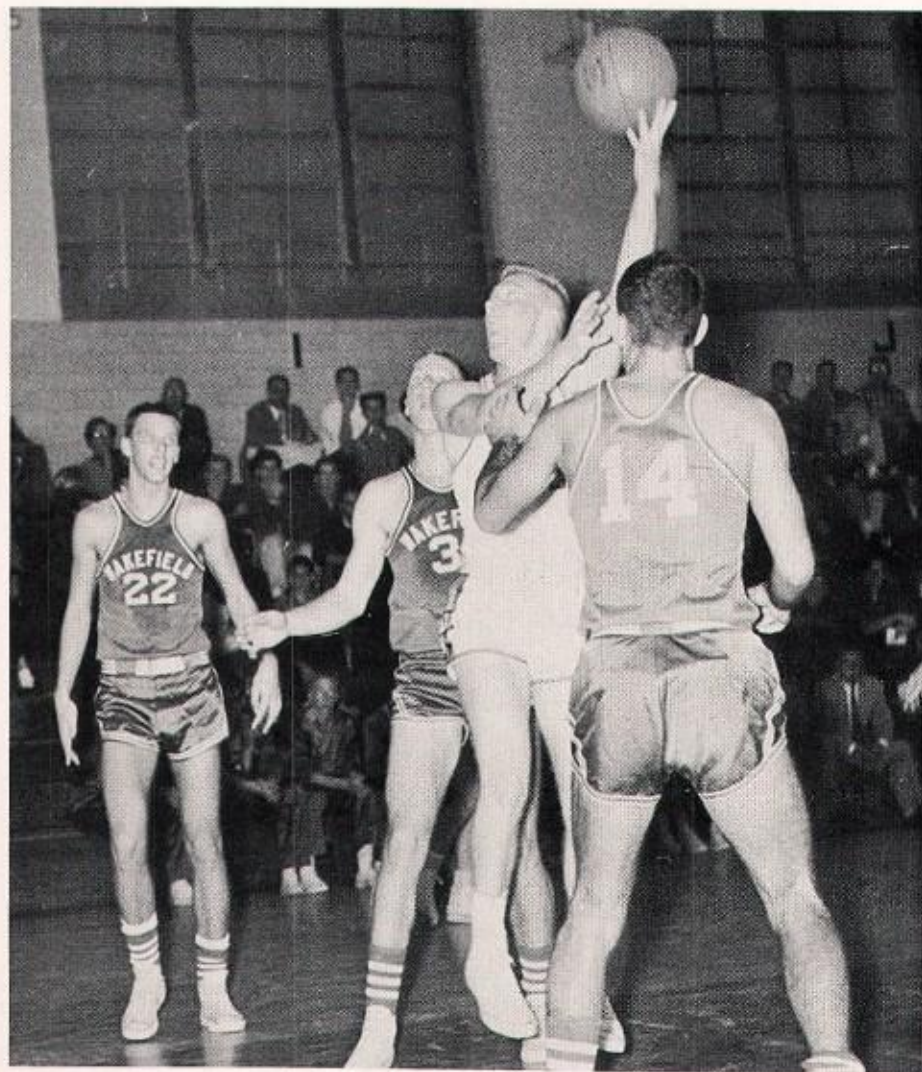

The Barons suffered two more defeats, one to Western and one to the alumni, before tasting victory.

Traveling to Coolidge, Bethesda topped a weak Colt team 63-45, as Bucky Brumbaugh scored fifteen points. Gonzaga, the perennial Catholic League power, was the Barons' next opponent. Trailing by seven points at half-time, the Barons pulled within two points when the Eagles poured in two baskets to win the game 47-43.

With the start of Bi-County League play came new spirit from the Baron five. Showing their potential, the cagers outscored Suitland 51-45. The following week, Bob Windsor scored twenty-three points while leading Bethesda over Northwestern 68-54. Extending their winning streak to three, the Barons completely outplayed the High Point Eagles and scored an easy 56-29 victory. Bucky Brumbaugh and Craig Felber led the scoring with sixteen and eleven points.

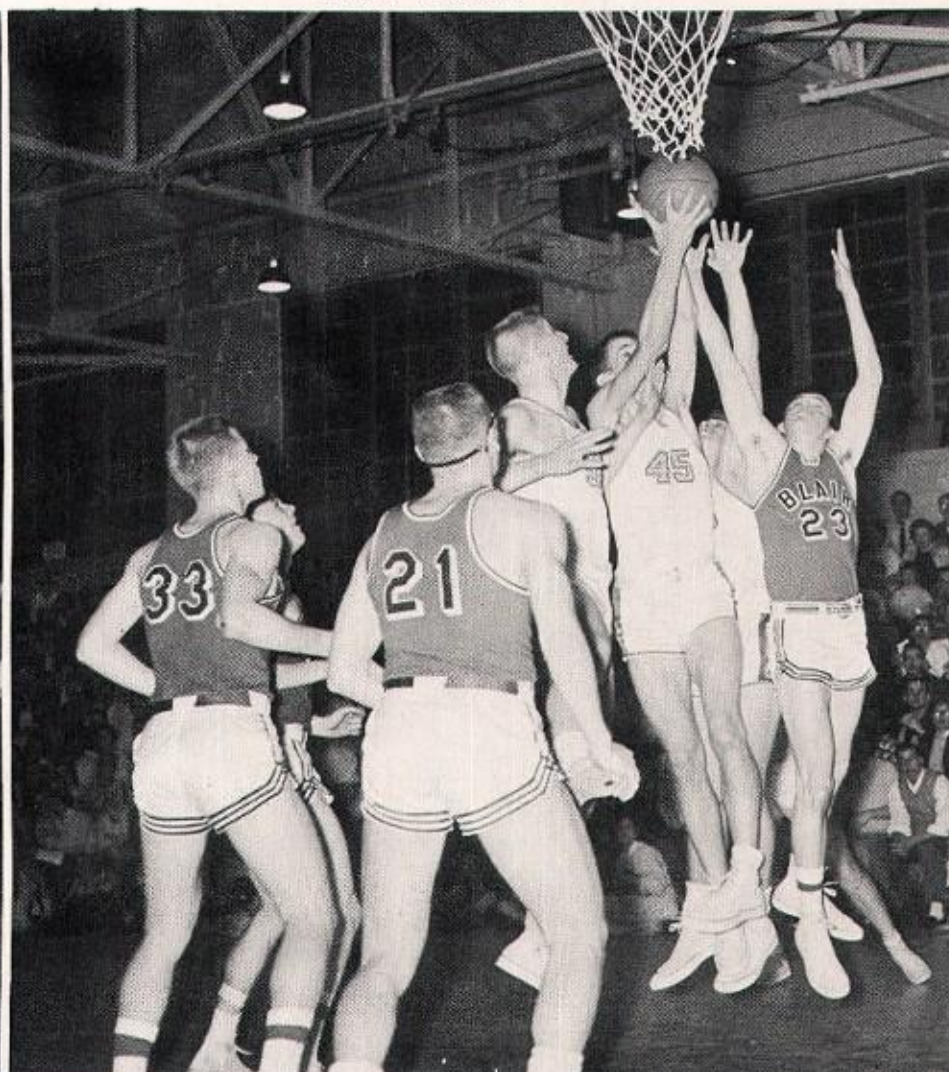

Suffering a close 55-53 defeat to Bladensburg, B-CC faced Blair on the latter's court. Blair jumped to an early lead and were never headed as they swamped the Barons 85-54. Bucky Brumbaugh added twenty points to his final season total of 263.

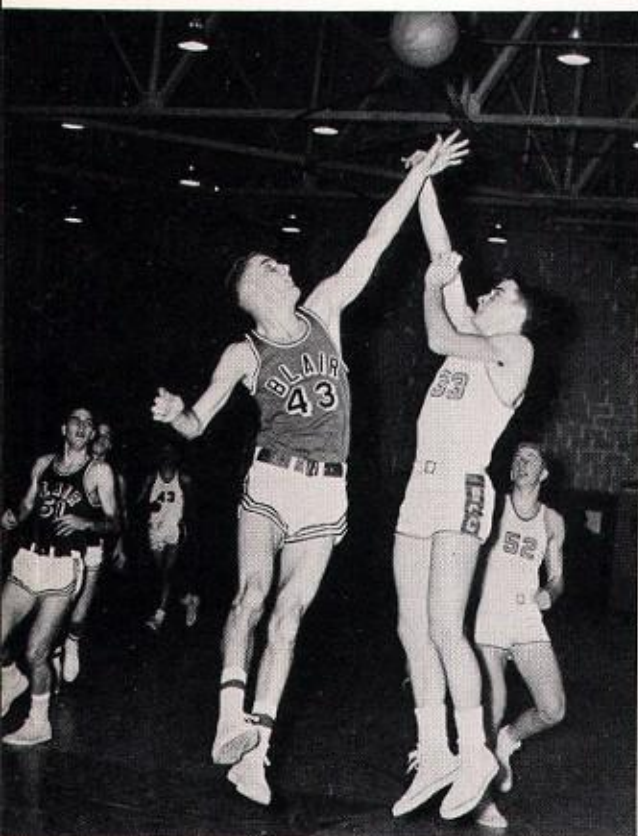

Richie Lee drives through the defense for a hook shot in the Wakefield game.

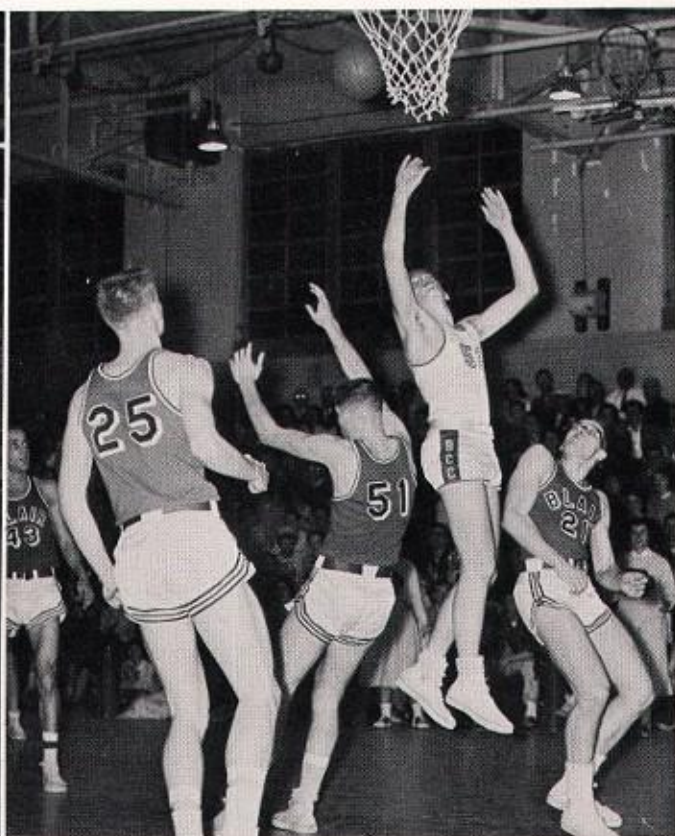

Bethesda's Brumbaugh goes high for a rebound against Northwestern. The Barons dropped this game to the Wildcats, 40-44, after winning the first game, 68-54.

Chris Bradley snatches the ball from a would be Blazer rebounder. Blair's Barry Goss and Tommy Brown look on.

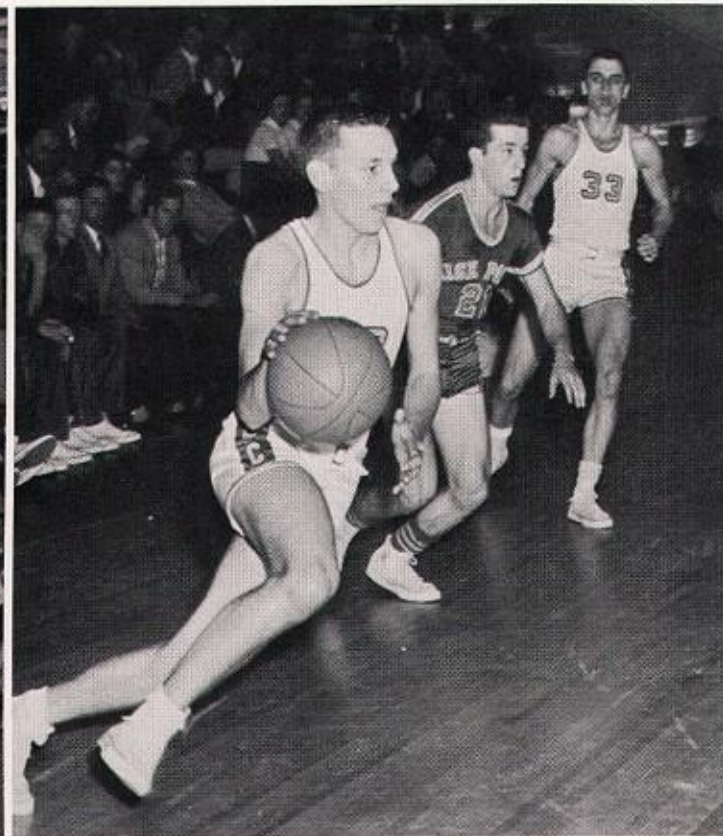

Tom Maddox of Blair successfully stops Windsor's attempt to score on a last break.

Faking and driving prove to be a successful combination, as Bob Bryan scores on a lay-up in the Blair game.

Driving for the basket, Craig Felber finds a weakness in the High Point defense.

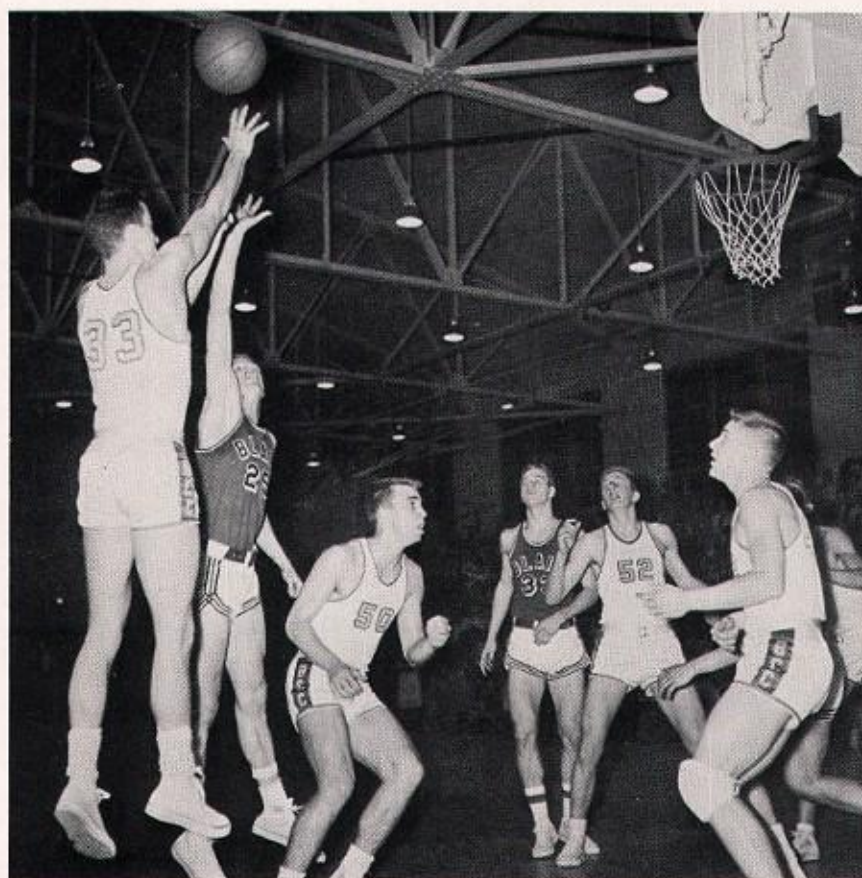

Close Game—Exciting But Hard To Lose

Beginning a new winning streak, B-CC easily outplayed Oxon Hill, the new member of the Bi-County League. Going into the Wheaton game, the Barons sought a weak opponent. Instead they edged out the knights to take a one point victory, 48-47. Again the Barons were victorious, this time with a win over Suitland, 52-49.

The Northwestern Wildcats and John Carroll followed on the Barons' schedule and defeated our squad.

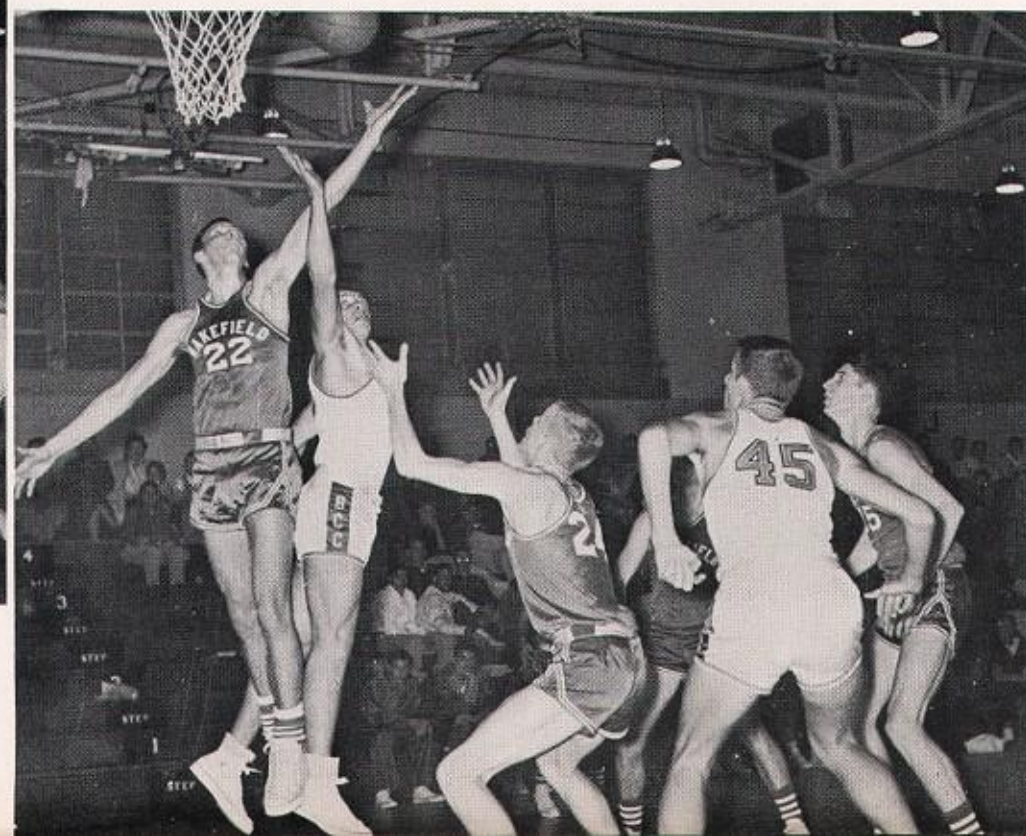

B-CC brought its Bi-County record to eight wins and three losses with victories over High Point and Bladensburg. Bob Bryan scored twenty points as the Barons hit on sixty percent of their shots.

Compiling their longest streak of the season, the cagers defeated Wheaton and Oxon Hill. Bob Windsor led the scoring punch as Chris Bradley collected many important rebounds. The season ended with a loss to Blair by a seven point deficit.

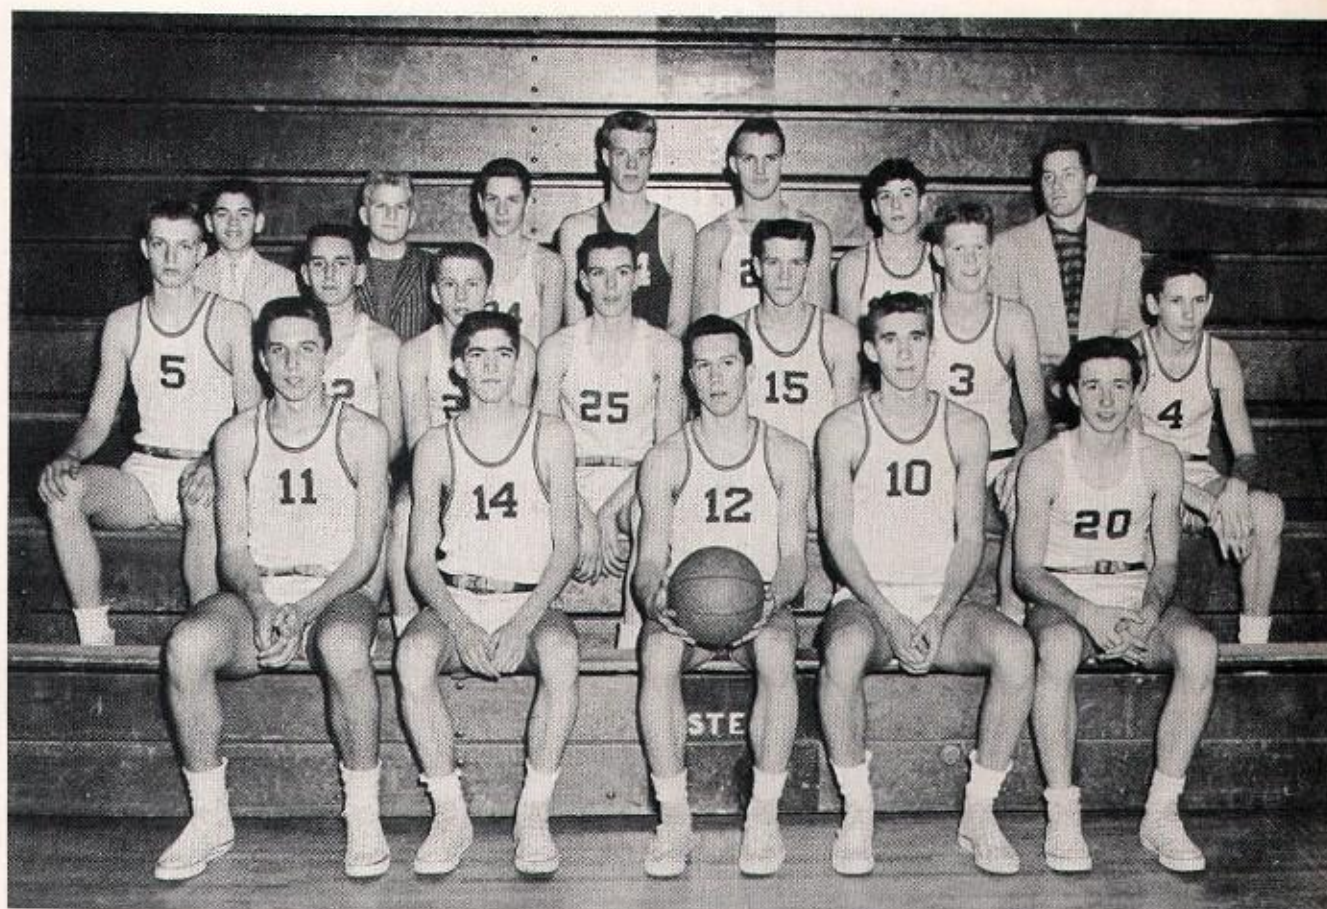

Blazer Bob Daniels vainly attempts to block Bob Windsor's shot. MacCartee, Bryan, and Harris fight for rebounding positions.

The season totals revealed 267 points for Bob Windsor, high on the team. Windsor was also awarded a position on the Bi-County first team.

Under the guidance and coaching of Mr. Jack Doane, the junior varsity compiled a 10-4 record. Coach Doane combined ball control playing with fast break tactics. Phil Billard and Mike Jecko were the main stalwarts of the team, backed by Dave Holmes, Harry Smith and Don Krueger.

Phil Billard drives in for a lay-up in the JV game against Blair. Bethesda's Kevin Gallagher awaits a possible rebound.

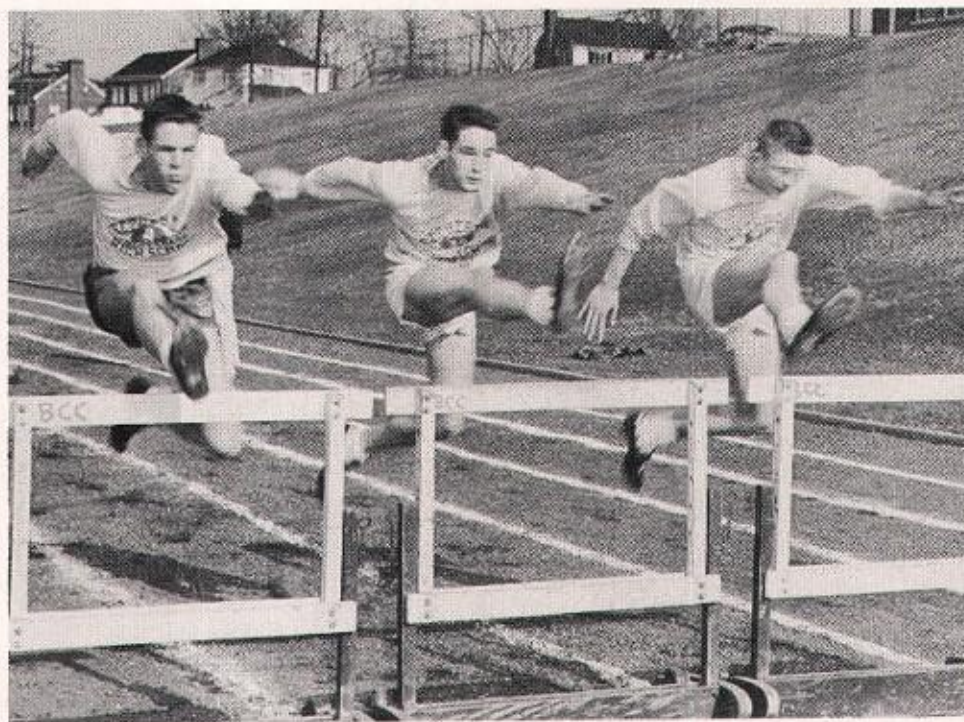

Coach Davis looks over his 1958 track hopefuls. With only six lettermen returning, Davis faced a tremendous rebuilding job.

Bad Weather Hampers Baron Trackmen

In his third year as track coach, Mr. James Davis was faced with a tremendous rebuilding job to produce again an outstanding team. With only six returning lettermen, Coach Davis met the challenge by employing talents of many underclassmen.

It appeared that Bethesda would rely mainly on its cindermen rather than the field events. The Barons seemed especially strong in distance races with George Baum and Dave Vert competing in the mile and Art Gauss in the 880 yard run.

Julian Weiss, John Knight, and Bob Borth take the high hurdles during a practice session.

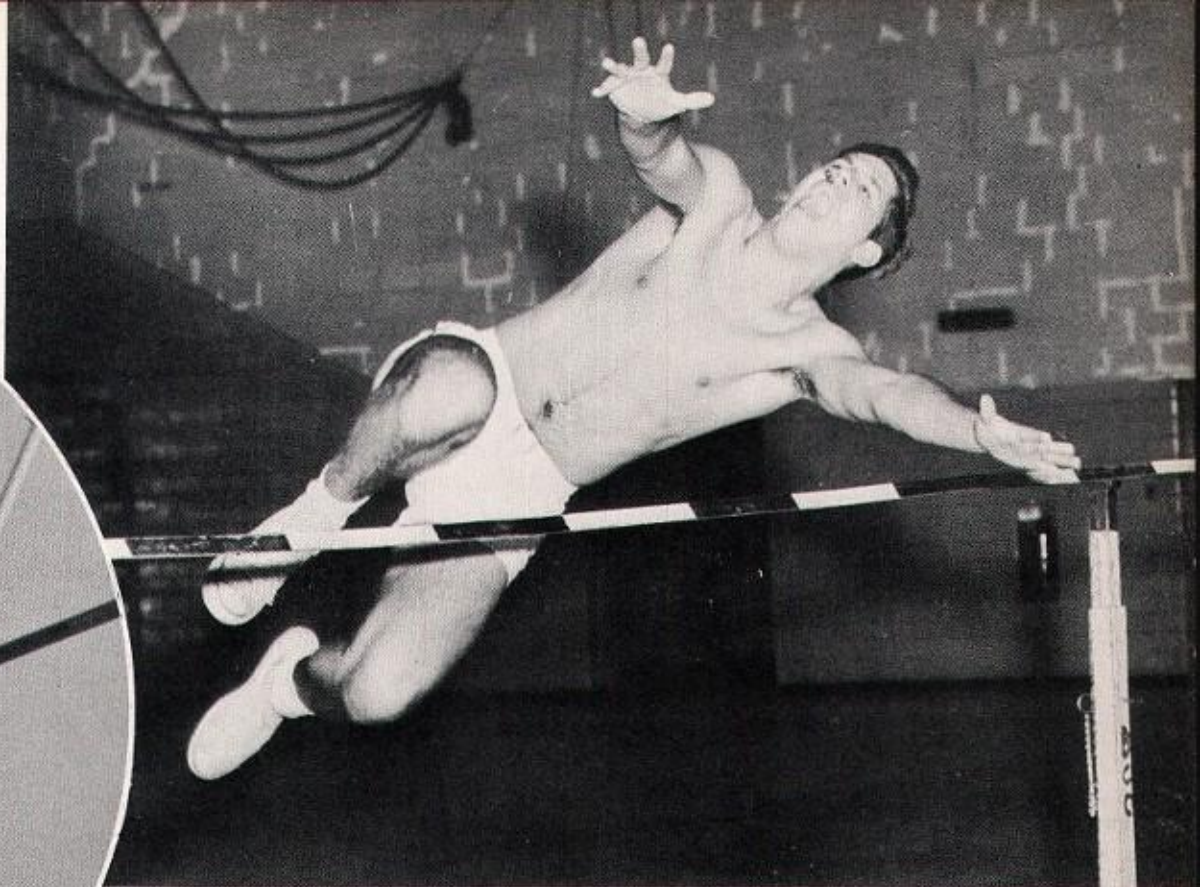

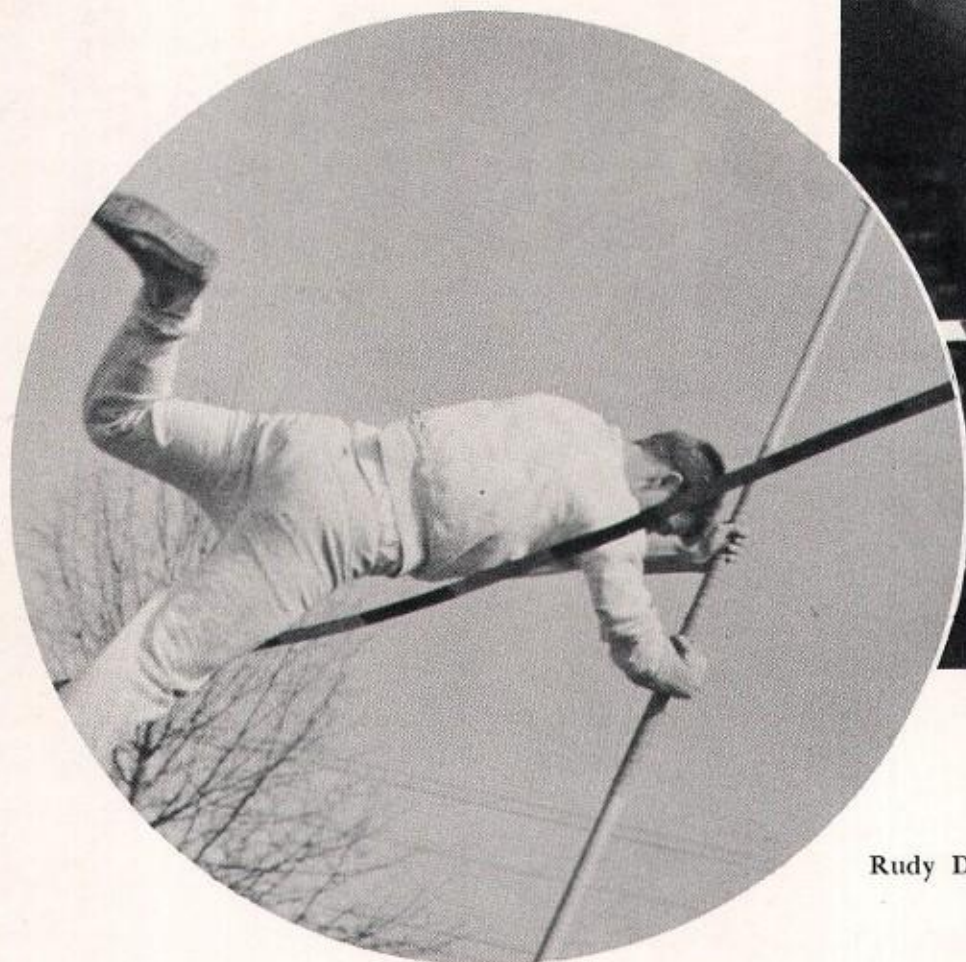

Bob Coherd, Bill Browning, and Dave Karr proved to be outstanding in the dashes as they consistently racked up points toward Baron victories.

In his second year as a pole vaulter, Rudy Dahl showed his potential by providing good form and agility in the Walter Johnson meet, the first meet of the season. Billy Crowell, another Baron high jumper, was injured in the W.J. meet. The Barons indicated the bright future in store for them by soundly defeating the Trojans.

Mr. Davis gives Mike Lyons a few pointers on throwing the discus.

Cold weather, rain, and snow forced Ronnie Applestein to practice high jumping in the gym.

Rudy Dahl clears the bar in the pole vault.

Rifle Team Scores

Shooting practice prevails for members of the Rifle Club every Friday afternoon at the Blair shooting range.

The team sported several outstanding participants and fared well against good competition. Matches were held against Blair, Landon, the Pinwheel, and the Powder Burners Rifle Clubs.

John Bruce was president and one of the outstanding marksmen as was Craig Hardy, vice-president. Brothers Doug and Richard Oberlander also added strength to the team. In the nationwide NRA postal matches, B-CC showed their prowess by placing 37th among 217 clubs entered.

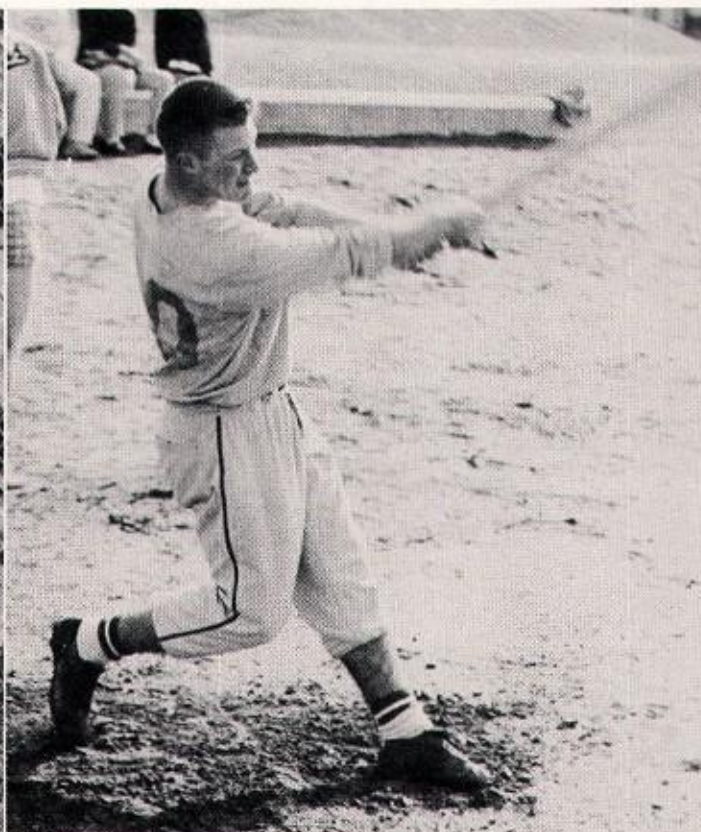

John Bruce confers with the rifle club's faculty adviser, Mr. Guidara, before an important meet.

Lettermen Return To Diamond Squad

Experience was the keynote to success for the 1958 baseball team as many regulars returned. Bob Bryan commanded first base as Harold Gearhart and Jim Carone played second base and shortstop respectively, to complete the double play pattern. Ken Smith covered third base for the second year, and Ken Nisewaner protected home plate, also for the second consecutive year.

The outfield was built around centerfielder Neal

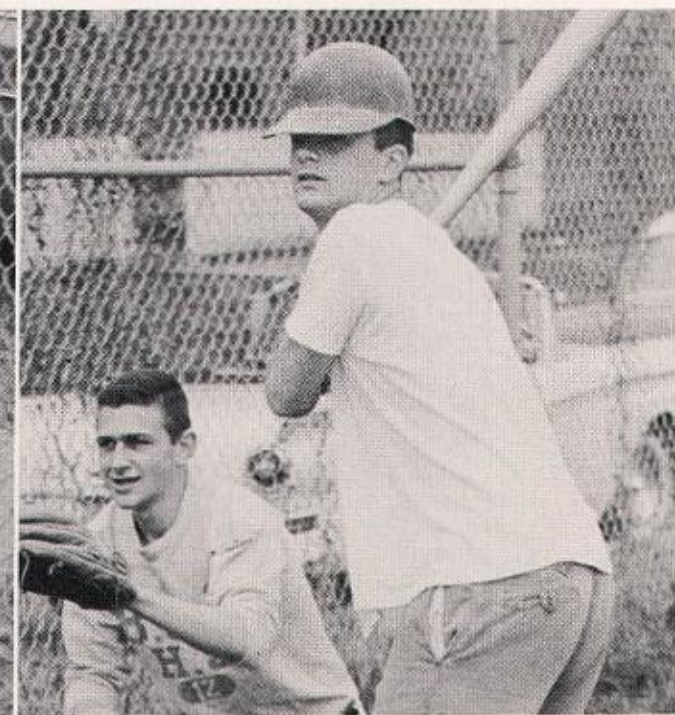

McDuffie. Craig Felber and Mike Sutin led the Barons in the pitching department.

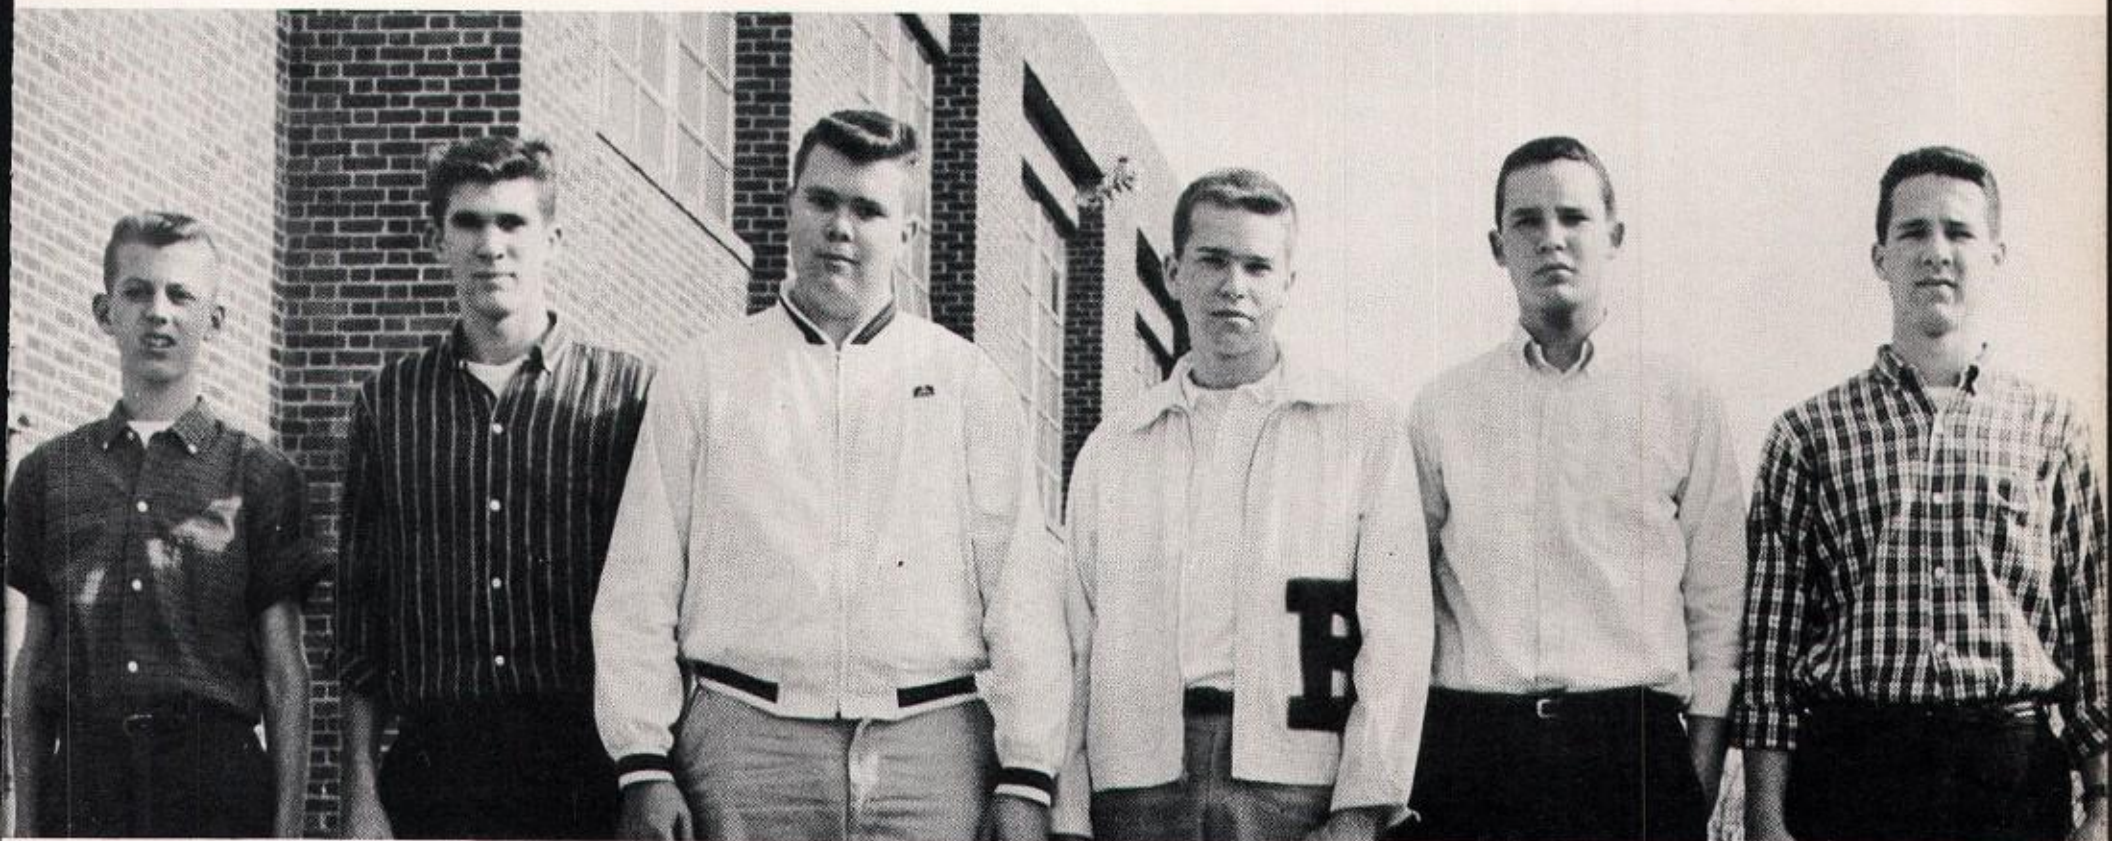

The Barons' schedule included fourteen games, all with Bi-County league competition. Leading off against Suitland, the boys found the league was much stronger than in past years. Blandensburg and Blair led the opposition with impressive victories early in the season but our team offered real competition.

Coach Fitanides relaxes with some of his reserves.

Tennis Team—Frank Goeltz, Mike Jecko, Richard Cunningham, Charles Davidson, Hank Glassie, Gus Smith.

Netmen Return Too!

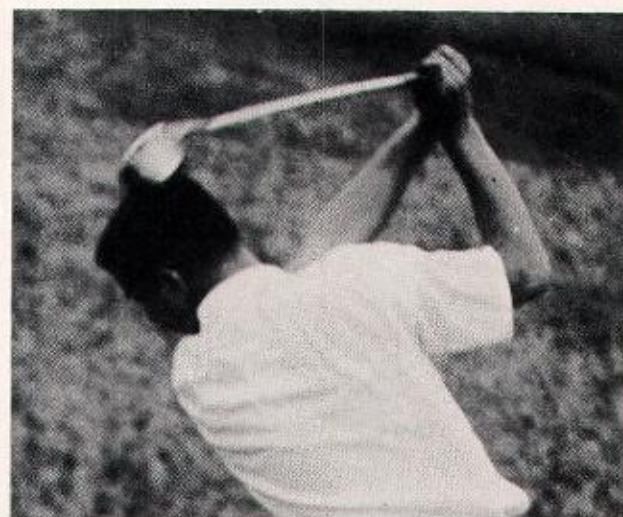

Tennis, instituted at B-CC in 1953, has ranged from outstanding to mediocre. This year the Barons had three returning lettermen, Tony Birch, Charlie Davidson, and Mike Jecko, with three sophomores giving the team added strength.

Opening their slate against Wakefield, the netmen faced rugged competition in matches against W-L, Blair, Wilson, and Walter Johnson.

This year's golf team was cut from a field of 26 boys with Doug Lindsay again leading the team. Carl MacCartee, Warren Hughes, Mike Staren, and Dave Holmes all returned from last year's team. With the aid of sophomore Lance Righter, the Barons promised another outstanding season.

Our Girls Are Athletically Organized

The Girls' Athletic Association offers an intramural program for a variety of sports. At the termination of each playing season, a first and a second honor team are chosen. Teams are chosen on a point system which gives added recognition to the outstanding players in each sport. There is an Honor Game between the two honor teams, and the First Honor Team often challenge other schools to play games at the close of the season.

GAA members are also given the chance to compete against other Montgomery County schools at Sports Days held during the playing season of each major sport. A field day held at the end of the year for the junior highs promotes interest among potential recruits. Awards based on a point system are presented yearly to those girls who have accumulated the necessary points. The most cherished award offered requires 700 points and is a gold key.

Bowling Honor Team—First row: Jane May, Louise Nigh, Kay Connors. Second row: Teresa Arliss, Susan Rhodes, Judy Hornig, Barbara King, Judith Hoyle.

Mentally Stimulated

"Debate in Room 233." "CHIPS Staff will meet Tuesday." "N.H.S. will meet at 8 a.m." The Public Address System keeps up a constant chatter of meetings and we wonder how the executive committees, the honorary societies, the publications, and the clubs can have enough members. After all, we do have a Limitation of Activities Program which records extra-curricular activities participation and limits it!

Like a young girl who looks into her closet, examining carefully each dress therein, and finally chooses one which suits her tastes, students at B-CC consider the many activities which are offered and choose those which best suit their interests and abilities.

Our first choice is practically unlimited—we can choose ones that develop subject matter mastery, like Spanish; ones that provide an opportunity for service, like Kassai and Hi-Y; ones that develop social grace, like Bridge; or ones that develop leadership, like the Girls' Athletic Association.

We go on field trips, invite authorities to speak to us, enter contests, and participate in county, state, and national conferences. Sometimes, with 67 organizations meeting, club participation rivals that of the classroom.

"Stop by for me in the morning!" or "Got your car? I need a ride home!" are shouted from one end of the cafeteria or the corridor to the other. If that isn't heard, then it's, "Lend me a dime. I've gotta call my mother to come pick me up."

Students Lead — In And Out Of School

The Student Government Association Executive Committee is the link between the students and administration of B-CC. This committee, consisting of SGA officers and committee chairmen, meets during sixth period to coordinate student activities.

At the beginning of the year, each homeroom elects a representative to the Representative Assembly, the legislative body of SGA. This representative or his alternate discusses the Representative Assembly meetings and informs them of coming Student Government events.

The Cabinet is composed of the president of SGA, the presidents of all clubs, and the editors of the school publications. The purpose of the Cabinet is to act as an advisory committee to SGA and to coordinate student activities and calendar dates.

Hard Work, Time Spent — Better School

The SGA Social Committee is in charge of the arrangements, decorations, and cleaning up of all social activities at B-CC which concern the student body as a whole. Blair Week, the Blue and Gold Prom, and the Carnival were its three most important projects during the year.

Posted in homerooms and in the halls were signs announcing games and dances. These were examples of the work done by the In-School Publicity Committee.

The purpose of the Activities Committee is to balance each student's extra-curricular program. In order to do so, the committee distributes Limitation of Activity cards and conducts the distribution of monograms, awards based on points earned by active participation in school activities.

The Student Crier, orientation of students new to B-CC, the annual clothing drive for the needy, and the 3 in 1 charity drive are all projects which come under the direction of the Welfare Committee.

Promoting Spirit Throughout The School

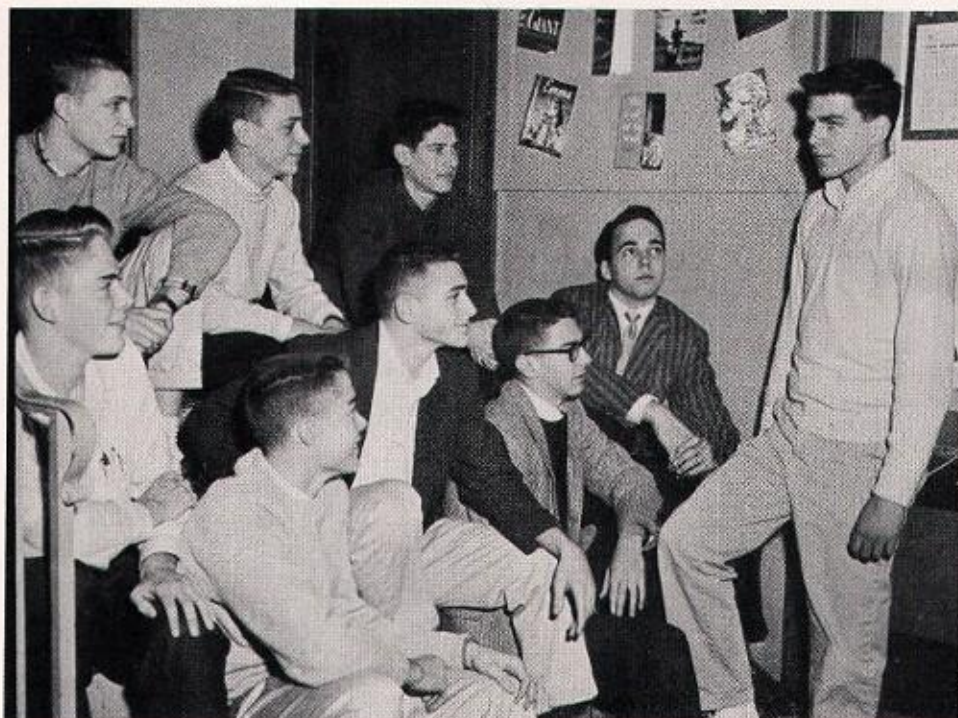

The Athletics Committee helps foster school spirit by promoting the sale of tickets, B-CC stickers, pins, and bells. This active S.G.A. group enthusiastically led us in backing our teams.

In order to publicize B-CC events and promote better community relations, the Out-of-School Publicity Committee writes press releases for the local newspapers and has a weekly program on radio station WINX.

The recently formed Pep Club supplies organized vocal encouragement for the varsity teams. Generally, their members promote school spirit as it applies to athletic events.

Rewards For Outstanding Achievements

Scholarship, leadership, service, and character—these are the qualifications for membership in the National Honor Society. Besides spending hours of concentrated study in order to maintain their high average, Honor Society members tutor other students.

"I made Thespians!" An exultant cry is heard. No wonder she's so happy. Membership in this honorary dramatics society signifies the culmination of at least one hundred hours of active participation in our school's drama productions.

Quill and Scroll is the honorary literary society of the school; membership on the staff of TATTLER, CHIPS, or PINE TREE is a prerequisite. Members are usually chosen in their senior year.

THESPIANS—Daniel Proctor, Bonnie McIntosh, Susan Taube.

Recognition — An Opportunity To Serve

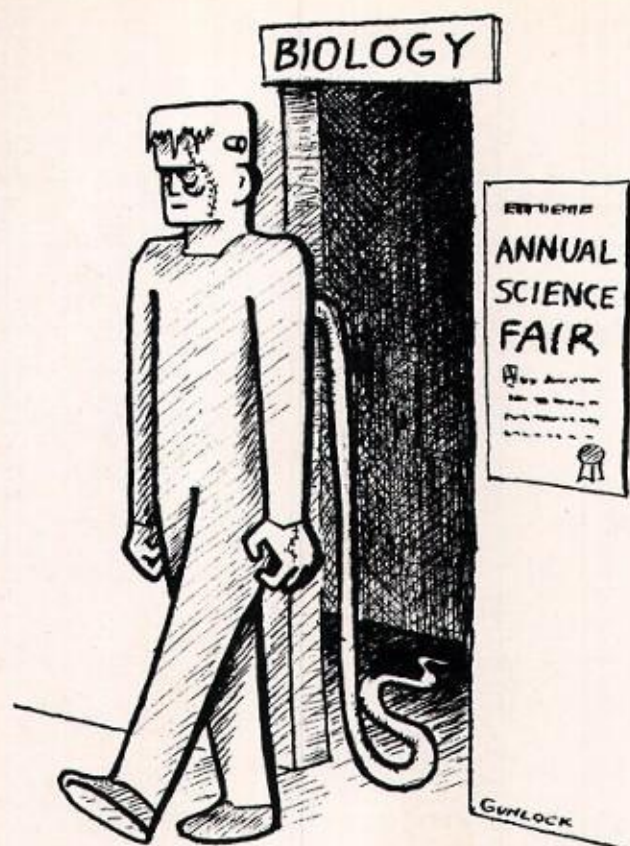

Wheel Club . . . potential leaders . . . sponsored by Rotary Club. As numerous as the spokes in a wheel are the services which they perform. Wheel Club's services have varied from distributing football rosters and ushering at school programs to sponsoring the Halloween dance, the "Spook Swing". "Friendship Week" was also a service activity sponsored by the Club.

Key Club is an honorary organization sponsored by Kiwanis Club. Members serve the school in many ways. Their activities this year varied from helping sponsor the Club Baron to parking cars on College Night. They printed basketball schedules, ushered at dramatic performances, and instituted a point system for rating the services rendered by the members.

Developing Talent

"Check with the Audio-Visual Crew!" How many times a day is that comment heard! Providing movie and slide projectors, screens, tape recorders, and record players for classes and clubs is no small task. Yet, not only is the equipment supplied and operated, but in many cases, the crew also orders the films and records and sees that they are returned.

"Did you see those blue fish in the library?" Part of a colorful bulletin board arrangement urging the students to read, the "blue fish" were the work of the Library Club which publicizes new books in the library, helps the librarians, and urges everyone to enjoy the world-in-books.

Electronics Club provides the opportunity for individual experimentation, operates a ham radio station, and laughs at the term "egghead".

"Say cheese" is not the motto of our Photography Club, but their results are professional. With a darkroom at school and a darkroom at home, how can they miss?

Hours Of Practice Lead To Excellence

B-CC is proud of its band, the music it plays, and the awards it wins. For the past six years, the band has won first place in the Lion's Club Band Contest.

The Concert Band provided music for assemblies and similar programs.

The marching band played at the parade which honored Queen Elizabeth. The band also plays for home football games, and supplies "pep" bands for basketball games and rallies.

Later in the spring, ten members of the Band represented B-CC in the Maryland All-State Band, followed by the annual band concert.

They Are Always Backing The Barons

Smiling girls, full of pep and precision, are B-CC's Cheerleaders, Pom Pon Team, and Majorettes.

"Let 'em hear it! Come on now. A big Yea, Team." This year's cheerleaders urged the fans to be heard and were so full of pep and energy that they introduced cartwheels into some of the cheers.

"Stand up straight! Head up! Smile! Look Alive!"

The precision of our Pom Pon Team and Majorettes is due to the constant repetition of this strict procedure. Besides marching at B-CC's home games, the Pom Pons and Majorettes marched in the Silver Spring Christmas Parade, the B-CC-Blair pre-game show, the Maryland Homecoming Game, and the parade honoring Queen Elizabeth.

Halls Echo With Songs And Serenades

Music, Music, Music! And it comes out here at B-CC. Every interest, every talent has a chance to develop and perform whether it be in assembly or at services for the graduates.

During the year, assemblies are enlivened by performances of the Orchestra and Junior Choir. The Orchestra provided music for the National Honor Society assemblies and competed in the state contests at Maryland University. The Junior Choir performed at the Christmas assembly and presented the operetta, H.M.S. Pinafore, the first musical we've had in several years.

"Together We" say the members of the A Cappella Choir as they work towards their goals of perfect pitch, diction, beautiful tone, and phrasing. Don't be alarmed if you hear them singing, "As I was walking through the zoo one day" or "Little Tommy Tucker", for these are only drills which the choir practices to learn the fundamentals of good singing.

The choir's schedule for this year began with their singing at the Honor Society and Thanksgiving assemblies. The highlights of the first semester's program were the Christmas concert and the Honor Choir's performance at the Cosmos Club.

The choir presented a program for Easter at Naval Medical Hospital and, later in the spring, the Budget-card concert which featured songs from "My Fair Lady" and "Oklahoma". A concert for peace and brotherhood held at the National Cathedral was a fitting climax to the choir's schedule.

Deadlines — A Deadline Is A Deadline

"Do you know who this is?" "Did you tell the president of that club to come in here and identify the members?" "Count this headline for me. I get a different score each time!" We members of the PINE TREE staff asked questions, made demands and learned that the only way to get anything done was to do it ourselves. Deadlines had to be met. Then paste-ups had to be done. Advertisers had to be interviewed and sold.

The merchants of Bethesda and our school community knew where to place the ad that brought results. If they didn't, our advertising staff reminded them.

Came the snow! Drifts piled up against the school doors while we stayed at home and fretted at the delay. No school and no work for a week meant plenty of work for the staff the following week. We proofread, we griped, we groaned. We produced the 1958 PINE TREE.

The TATTLER — Bethesda News And Views

"Do you have any news tips?" Members of the TATTLER staff report the latest news. Then comes the writing, proofreading, paste-ups, and, finally the trip to the bus station for the tedious final proofreading. This year the TATTLER received its eighteenth All-American rating.

Throughout the year, students' masterpieces in literature, poetry, art, and music are submitted to the CHIPS staff who then go through the process of reading, criticizing, and editing. The final selections, sent off to the printer, return as a polished literary magazine—CHIPS.

Y's Have A Ball

Tri-Hi-Y, Hi-Y; sophomore, junior, or senior! These result in many individual clubs with many service projects. The Y-Council, composed of the president and a councilman from each group, is the coordinating body of the Y-Clubs. The Council makes it possible for the Club Baron, the Mistletoe Ball, and the BLUE and GOLD HANDBOOK. Throughout the year, the Y-Clubs sponsor service projects as activities of individual clubs.

We Look Ahead

"Say, Ah," and club members dream of careers in medicine. Films, lectures, and practical experience in the nurse's office help Future Doctors and Nurses gain a real insight into their chosen profession.

"We're practical! Women are homemakers all of their lives whether in the career girl's apartment or in the home in the suburbs with four kids." Membership in Future Homemakers Club gives an opportunity to learn the newest methods.

"Quiet!!! Will the class please come to order?" Four years from now this voice could easily be that of a former member of the Future Teachers of America Club. The members listen to guest speakers, observe classes in other schools, serve as teachers' aids, and prepare for a career in teaching.

Using Languages

Linguistics Club challenges students to study languages not offered in B-CC's curriculum. Members listen to speakers from foreign countries and publish their annual newspaper, the POLYGLOT.

French and Spanish Clubs invite representatives from the embassies, show films, and conduct meetings in the French and Spanish languages. Members hope to increase their knowledge of the language by a study of the customs of their homeland.

Scientific Thought

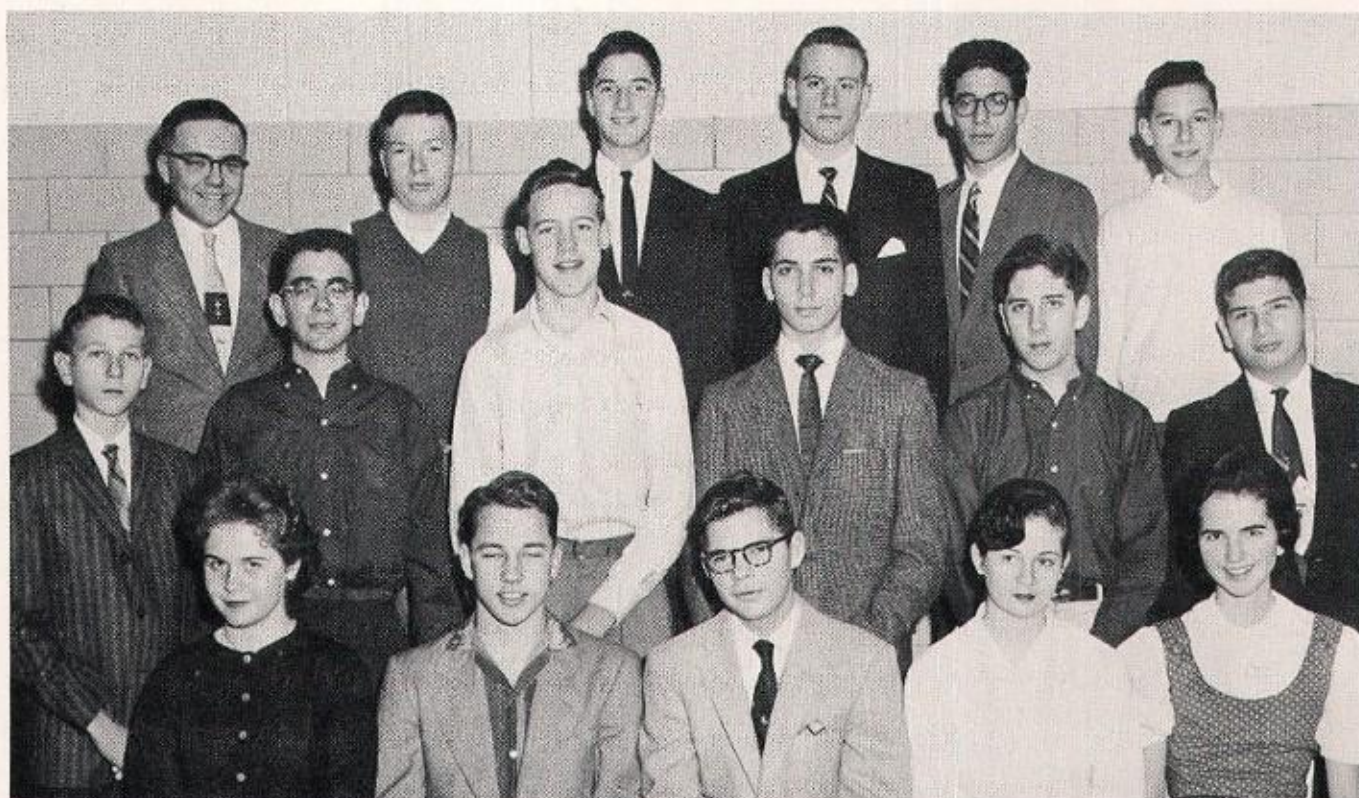

"The azaleas will go here and . . ." The Biology Club is at work landscaping the front of the school. Members spend many hours striving to beautify the grounds of B-CC.

The Science Club stimulates its members to do further experimenting and research on scientific problems.

The Math Club provides an entertaining outlet for students interested in mathematics, sponsors tutoring services and math contests, and also donates Math books to the school library each year.

They're Always A Hit With The Girls

The Girls' Athletic Association, coordinated by the G. A. A. Council, offers a broad program of intramural sports, ranging from hockey to softball. Sportsdays with other Montgomery County schools increase interest and skill. Members of G. A. A. gain experience and skill in officiating for the intramural games.

Kassai, service organization for girls, has such an active program that seventy girls joined this year. Members hold fashion shows, bake sales, and auctions of lost and found articles. The proceeds from Kassai's activities are sent to Korea for the support and education of a war orphan.

Our Activities Vary

"Isn't that a delightful picture!" said someone at the Arts Fair. "I'll buy it!" Arts Club raises funds from this fair and the sale of Christmas cards toward a scholarship for a worthy senior.

The International Music Club feels that music is one way to gain a firm basis of understanding of other customs and ideals and their meetings are spent in sharing music from all over the world.

Members of the Civil War Club visit the Battlefields of Manassas and Gettysburg, read various accounts of the Civil War, and discuss and compare their findings.

CIVIL WAR CLUB—Phil Katcher, John McMillan, Tamara Pilch, Dick Lamb, Paul Marques.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB—

Today's Problems Are Tomorrow's Guide

"Everyone come after school to hear the Debate Club versus the International Relations Club on the subject of foreign economic aid." The Debate Club met our National Honor Society, Blair's Debate Club, and sponsored an assembly featuring a debate between George Washington University and West Point.

International Relations Club members, in addition to debating, have invited representatives of the Ghana and the Indian Embassies to talk to them. A traditional activity of the IRC is a trip to the United Nations under the auspices of the League of Women Voters. There is no limit to the variety of their activities.

Join — Participate

"Whose queen?" may be heard in Bridge or Chess Club, but the members say there's a difference. Members meet to practice, to compete, and to play.

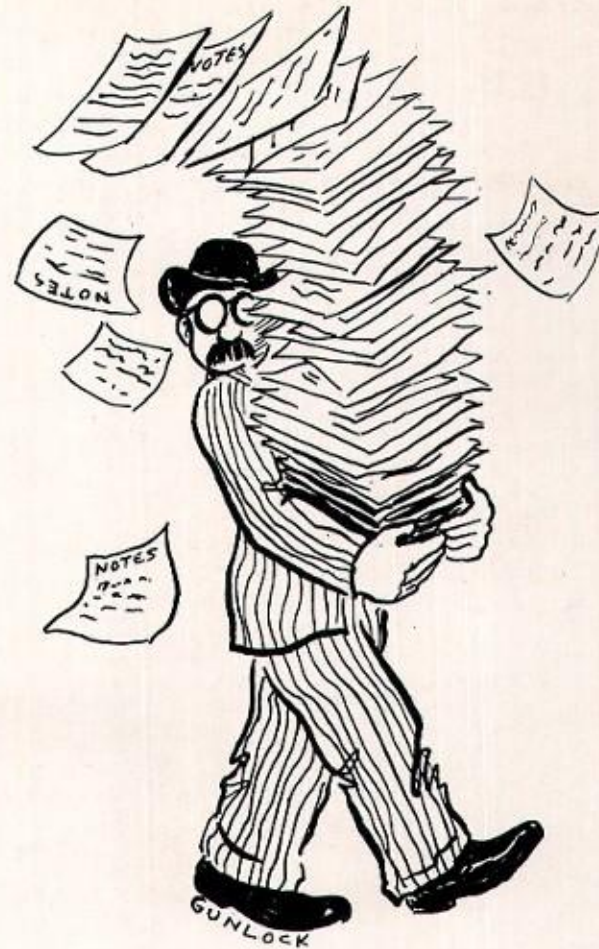

Stamp and Science-Fiction Clubs make collections, but there the similarity ends. Stamp collectors exchange and barter and form a mutual admiration society when they bring in their collections, which come from all over the world.

Members of Science-Fiction conduct a short story contest and review the latest science fiction literature. Sputnik and the Explorer have really challenged their imaginations; the world of Science-Fiction Club members is shaken.

Yearly Progressing

"It's almost over! I can't bear to think of leaving. Can you? Who'd have thought I could have changed so much since sophomore year? How do I know I've changed? Well, really . . . Don't you ever rate yourself?"

We get ratings every six weeks, but a secondary school like B-CC gets its report card once every ten years. How do we rate in '58? As faculty meetings increased in number and length, we heard the word evaluation. And we evaluated!

We looked at the school—an Administration Building, a Science Building, an Arts Building, a Girls' and a Boys' Gym. We saw the beginning of a new library building. We looked at the location—acres beside a busy highway in a residential section where sirens scream as police, ambulances, fire engines and rescue squads race by. We looked at our 72 faculty members and we looked at ourselves, all 1672 of us! Had we made the most of our opportunities, met our challenges wholeheartedly?

We evaluated the courses of study, the library, the cafeteria. We questioned the worth of pupil activities outside the classroom, the clubs, the classes, the athletic events.

We looked at Sputnik, listened to its dwindling "beep", and wondered how well we were preparing for the world we faced after graduation.

For us it was a good year, a worthwhile year. We felt pleased with what we'd achieved. We hoped our report cards would reflect our growth.

Locating the homeroom was the first order of the day. Each student had to consult the bulletin board to learn the section and room number.

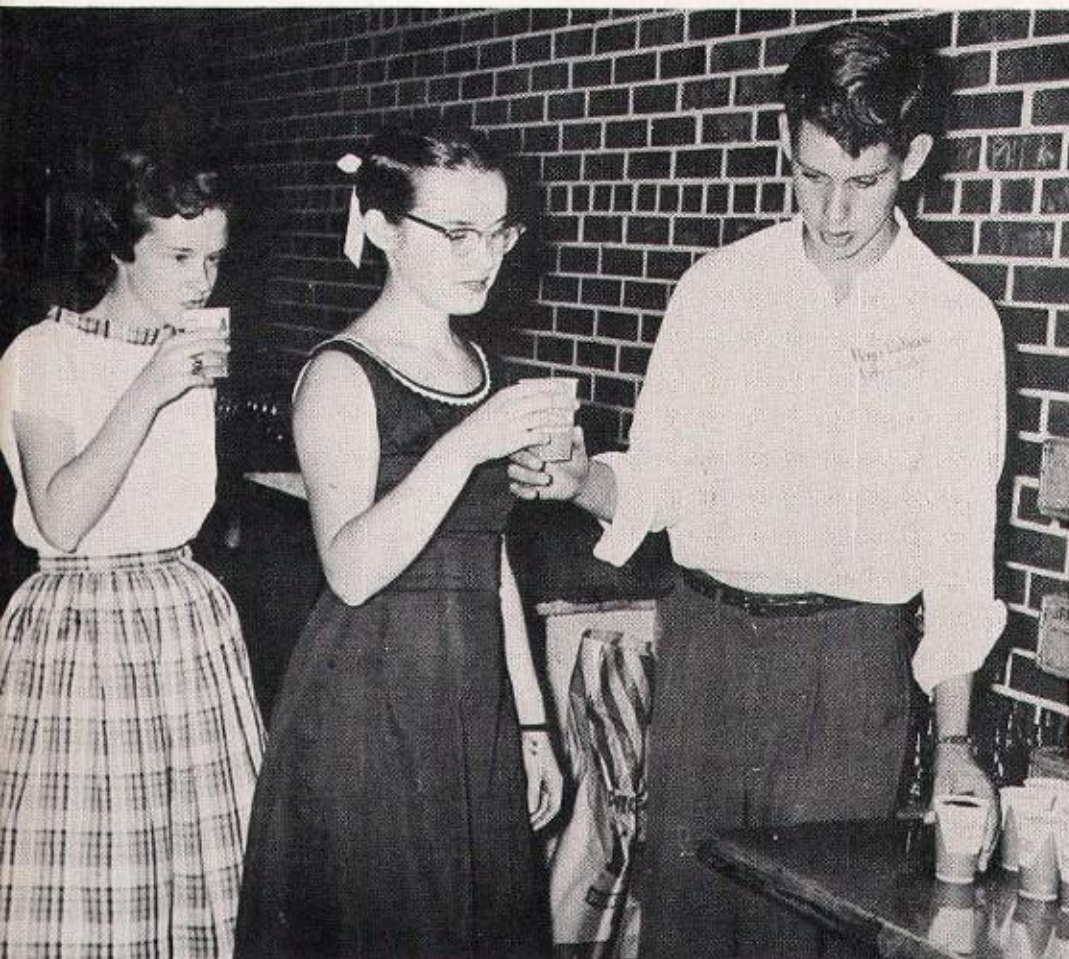

Summer Is Over When School Bells Ring

School is open! Fall is here, and after a long summer vacation we are back to our studies again. Reluctantly, we check the blackboard in front of the Administration Building to find our homeroom. The sophomores seem bewildered, the juniors feel important, and the seniors are quite superior to all.

Student Government, along with Kassai and other service organizations, conducted guided tours around B-CC the week before school began to help all sophomores and students new to the school. Refreshments were served in the Boys' Gym. Late registration was also taken care of by these organizations.

Laura Baxter and Terry Reber take time out from their guided tours during Orientation Week. Roger Parkinson helped serve.

Reed Isbell assisted students who registered before the beginning of school.

Ralph Kissick and Bonnie McIntosh work on the decorations for the Welcome Dance.

Shelby Thompson conducts one of the group meetings during the SGA Workshop.

Now We Welcome The Hallowed Halls

This year, SGA initiated a Saturday workshop. In this way, they hoped to get more work done and to give more people an opportunity to participate in the programs. Various discussion groups, each having a moderator and a secretary, presented ideas and exchanged ways of getting things done.

Among the activities of Student Government is the annual Welcome Dance which the Executive Committee plans during the summer vacation. This year, Wheel Club announced at the dance the first week of school would be Friendship Week, and prizes were given to the students chosen as the "Friendliest".

Field Is Dedicated

An open-air assembly was held later in September to dedicate the football field to William Guckeyson. He was selected by SGA and the Alumni Association on the basis of being an "all-around" individual. Bill attended B-CC, and later was graduated from West Point. He excelled in athletics, scholarship, and leadership. William Guckeyson's untimely death came during the war, when he was killed while flying over Paris. We are very proud to have our football field dedicated to William Guckeyson.

Katie McDowell urges a sophomore to seat himself as the service is about to begin. The flag marks the dedication plaque.

Shelby Thompson, president of SGA, begins the service dedicating our football field in the memory of William Guckeyson.

Outdoor assemblies require back-to-earth seating arrangements, but that doesn't detract from an effective program.

The SGA float committee prepares B-CC's entry in the parade to Silver Spring the morning of the Blair Game.

In the High Point game Jim Carone exhibits some of the good defensive play that helped the Barons attain the Bi-County championship for the second year. George Fuller is backing up the play.

The tree in the quad annually sports a dummy of a Blair player, the signal for many cheers for the Barons.

Spirits and temperature soar higher and higher as the bonfire climaxes the rally the night before the game.

Backing Our Team

The football field came alive in one of B-CC's most colorful and exciting seasons. It was climaxed by the Blair Game, in which school spirit was at its peak. The night before the big game we built a huge bonfire and burned the Blair dummy. The parade through Silver Spring the next day and the big game climaxed a season in which our only loss was to Walter Johnson.

P. A. Announcements begin the day with Jack Reeves at the mike.

"Go look at the Gym! It's being painted!" And it was—not just yellow—but blue, too!

Our Achievements And Obligations

Study does begin in the classrooms, however. Bethesda has many facilities to aid us, such as the tape recorder and ear phones used by the language department and the speech classes, the movie projectors and victrolas used by all, and the laboratory equipment in science.

The Asian Flu, the week lost because of snow, and the measles kept us home and interfered with our studies. Besides the four majors that most of us have, we also enjoy the many electives which provide diversion and practical experience.

The Choir adds a great deal to the N.H.S. Induction which is an inspiring assembly.

For a last minute review before a trig test, Charles Schwab and Rudolph Dahl find that any place, even the hall, would do for a final check.

Ed Bachschmid, Larry Anderson, and Bob Bean meet at the locker.

Before and after school and at lunch time, the Book Store keeps us supplied.

Study? We Do!

After the NHS Induction we turned over a new leaf and decided not to leave quite so many books in our lockers each night. We studied practically anywhere, anytime. We took our College Boards, our Merit Scholarship tests, and prepared for college applications.

Mr. Pyles was informed that B-CC had been chosen one of the 38 top academic high schools in the country. We were pleased, but we also realized an obligation to maintain high standards.

Ed Halpern, under direction of Miss Sullivan, French teacher, learns a new pronunciation in our new language laboratory.

Mrs. Darby makes Latin come alive by showing us the route Caesar took on one of his invasions.

We Learn By Demonstration And Study

Between dances, basketball games, and snow storms, we studied. After all, the primary purpose of going to school, we were reminded, was to get an education! We used the library, used the visual aids to learning, read the textbook, and finally did some thinking. School was not all fun.

We also became aware of the Middle Atlantic States Accreditation Association, aware of the Cooperative Study of Secondary School Standards. This was evaluation year. The faculty meetings were long and frequent. This year their discussions of "E", "D", or "F" referred to committee areas, not our grades!

Ten minutes of supervised study in class is equal to twenty minutes spent on the same subject, at home.

Mr. Bender, as a part of a class in Metal Shop, explains the proper use of the unishers.

Activity And Drama

But we couldn't study every single solitary minute! We took our chills and fevers to the nurse's office. We sought refuge in the world of make-believe. We took ourselves to the Thespian productions. The Boys' Gym lends itself to theater-in-the-round and our production of The Miser was in-the-round, relaxing, and realistic drama.

Mrs. Carnvale, the school nurse, works until five each afternoon on our health records. The announcement that shots for Asian Flu would be available was welcome news.

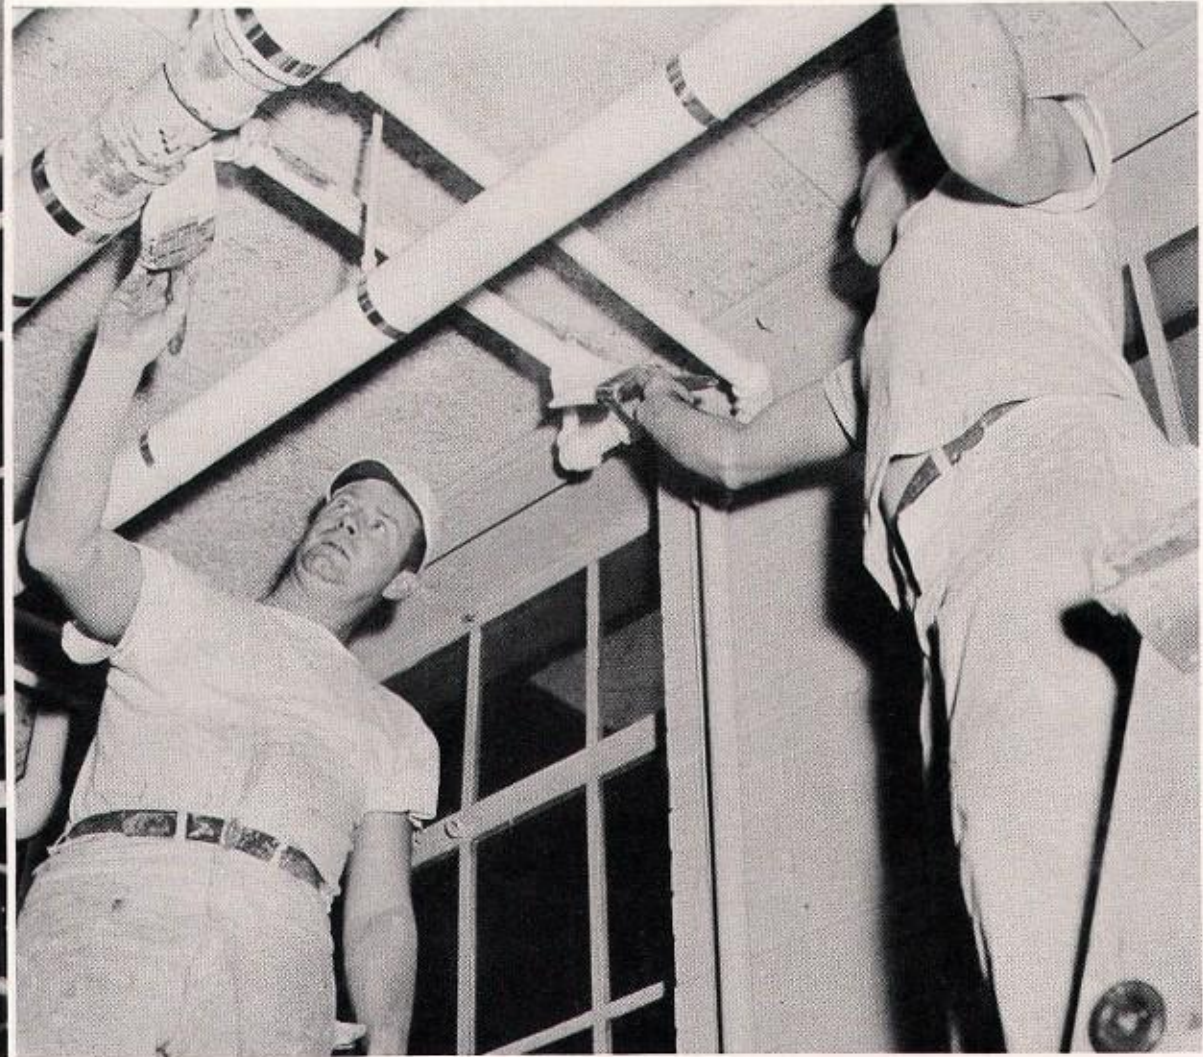

During rehearsal the long waits between appearances on stage are long, long, long.

Sharon Hadary practices a grand exit for the Thespians' production of The Miser. Admiring her poise are Phil Barr and Glenn Ruggles.

Mr. Dalla Santa coaches Phil Barr in the stance he should assume to portray advanced age.

The painters finally came to B-CC. Nothing was overlooked.

Painters And Bad Weather Take Over

In all kinds of weather school goes on. Gretchen Graves splashes through the rain.

At a later date, Martha Angle trudges through the snow. We went across the quad any time in any weather.

Art Class is more than a work shop to Gisela Nagel, Diane Woodrum, and Phelps Madison.

Sweet talk makes school life interesting!

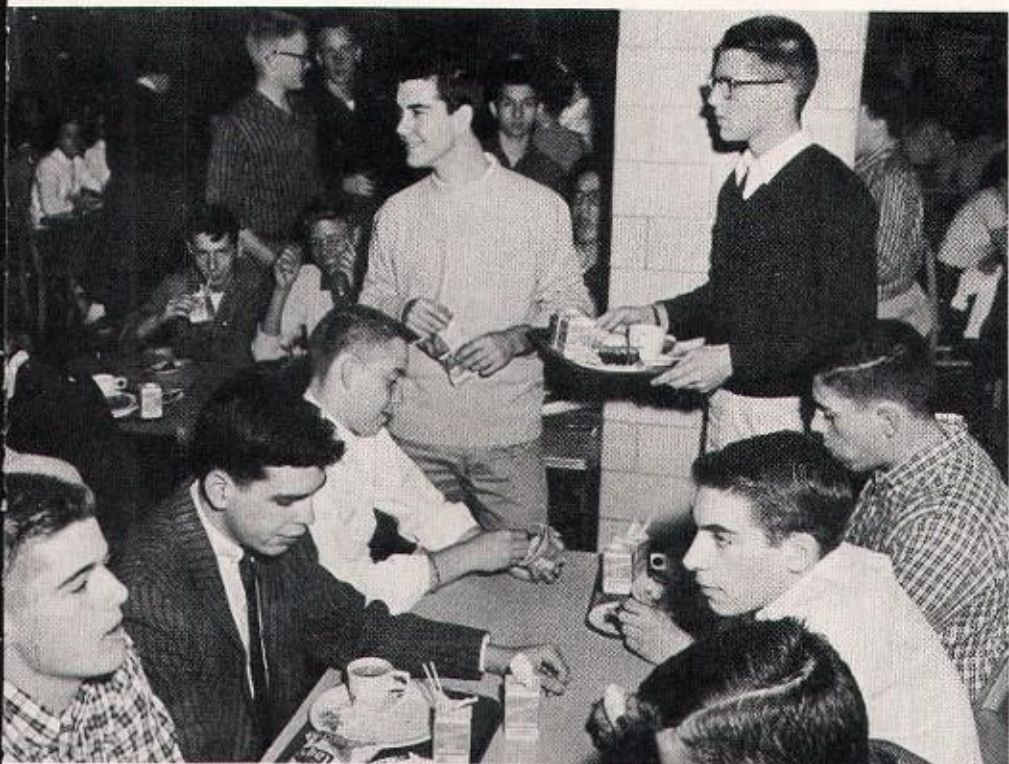

Barbara Grant and Ellen Slinn exchange latest news of the weekend's happenings as soon as they arrive.

And So Do Social Activities And Plans

Food and relaxation make the cafeteria a welcome interlude for these boys.

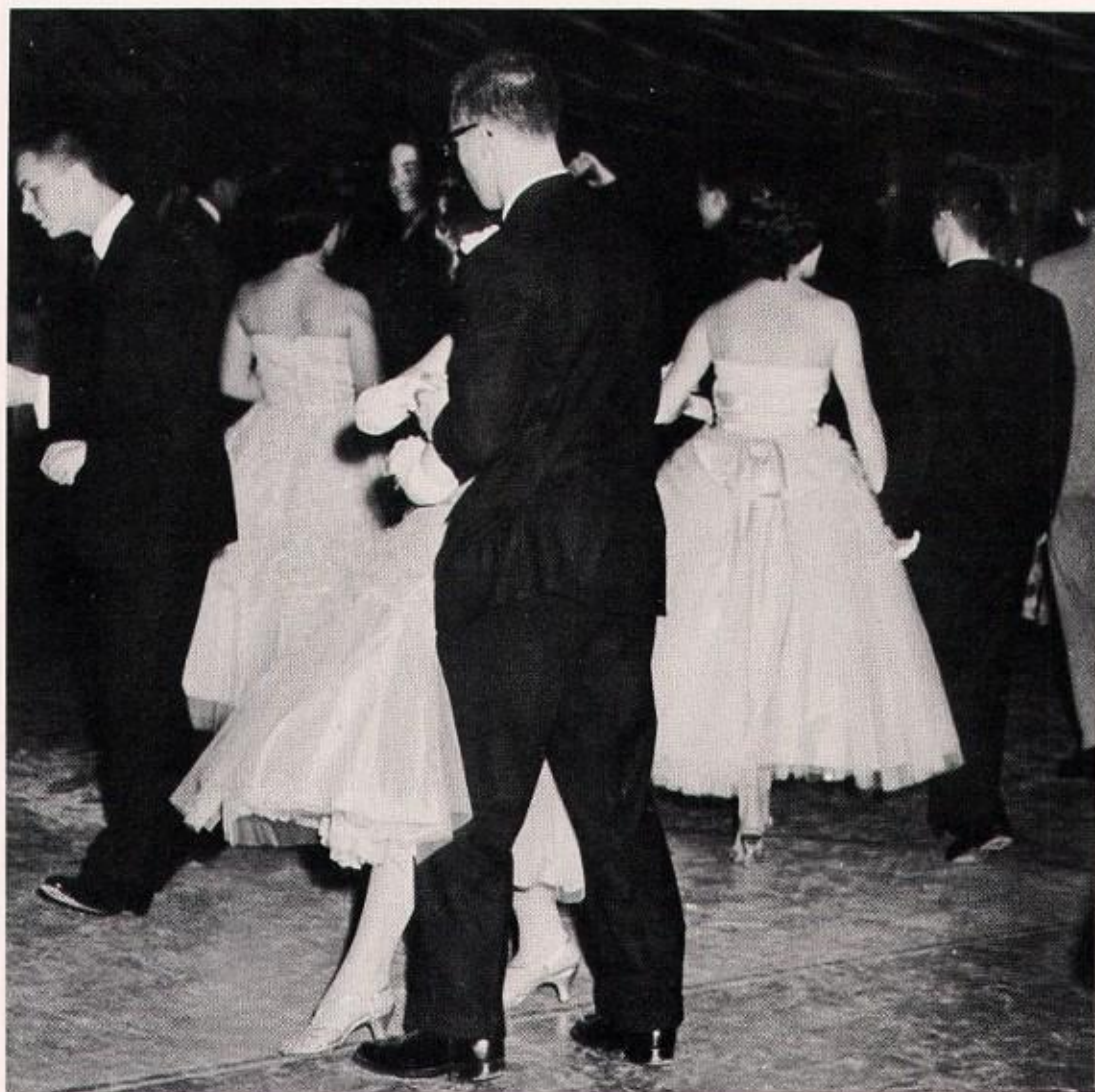

A hen party? No! It's just the girls' corner in the cafeteria.

Floating On Clouds

Sharon Hadary and her date hurry to join the dancers at the Blue and Gold.

Dancing couples are not readily identifiable in the dim lighting which somehow always seems most suitable for our dances.

Hours of preparation go into planning, preparing, and placing the decorations for a dance. Comes the dance and nobody notices.

We Could Have Danced All Night

The Blue and Gold Prom, one of the three formal dances held each year, celebrates the end of the first semester. Our dances are our favorite formal extra-curricular activity.

With enthusiasm, we set up committees for tickets, publicity, programs, the band, refreshments, and decorations. A few days before the big night, the gym is decorated and all available hands are put to work. At the dance, coats are checked by the Honor Society; refreshments are served by the organization giving the dance. The dances are a big success, and everyone has a good time, even those who stay to clean up.

Joan Shannon collects the tickets while Louise Nigh waits patiently to get on to the dancing.

Coat checking is a real service performed regularly by N.H.S. members and their dates.

Formal dances provide the experience of going through a receiving line.

After we pass the ticket taking, coat checking, and hand shaking, we get to dance.

The Premium Stamp craze even hit B-CC.

Deadline Met! Fran Weitzel, Helen Macke, Becky Gates, Ralph Logan, Emily Trueblood, Cathy Hurtick, Candy Parrish, Tom Gunlock, Robin Hall, and Keith Reeves celebrate the completion of the art for the yearbook.

Kelly England and Judy White take the tests in Driver Training Class to learn their reaction times.

Part Of The Fad

Russia's Sputniks shocked the world and brought about criticism and evaluation of our educational system. When we heard that education in high school "wasn't hard enough," we were glad when the Army successfully launched the Explorer, our own "baby moon". Maybe school wouldn't have to get too much harder!

The Earth Science students were especially aware of this, the International Geophysical Year, but we were all conscious of the extensive studies being done by scientists from all over the world. Studying the heavens, as well as our own earth, each nation specialized in a certain field. Even the Antarctic was subjected to more careful exploration.

With President Eisenhower's reporting to Walter Reed Hospital for the third time, came announcements of an agreement with Vice President Nixon. Talk of mild recession and anti-recession strategy grew, and we learned that more people were out of work in February, 1958, than there had been at any time in the last sixteen years.

Cookies go like wildfire at a Kassai bake sale after school. Keeping the customers happy are Kathy Murphy and Gloria Wright.

Tri-Hi-Y has as much fun entertaining children at Junior Village as the children have being entertained. Balloons are fun for anyone, as Patty Hughes, Joan Calderwood, and their two small friends discover.

Work And Fun—It's All In A Day At B-CC

Ellen Goldfarb and Martin Giller welcome Dr. Mario Geyman Galarza, alternate representative from Bolivia to the Organization of American States, as speaker at a meeting of the Spanish Club.

The bank is a busy place with students constantly paying fees for science and gym classes, game tickets, and school pictures.

Awards from the Wheel Club are presented to Mr. Mason, their faculty sponsor, and Mr. Ryder C. Ray, a representative from Rotary International.

We Give, Receive In Our Activities

Second semester means that grades have been sent off to the colleges, and we sit back and wait for the results. Along with the new semester comes the end of the basketball season and the anticipation of spring. This year the Sophomore Choir gave H.M.S. Pinafore, under the direction of Mr. Messick.

Senior Days also help herald spring's arrival. Despite the sack and chemise dresses worn by the Senior teachers and the number of tests given, the school remained on an even keel. The student-teachers put a lot of work into the allotted two days, but they gained a great deal of experience and insight.

Jean Cummins and Bill Baxter, members of the H.M.S. Pinafore cast, rehearse an especially moving part of the operetta.

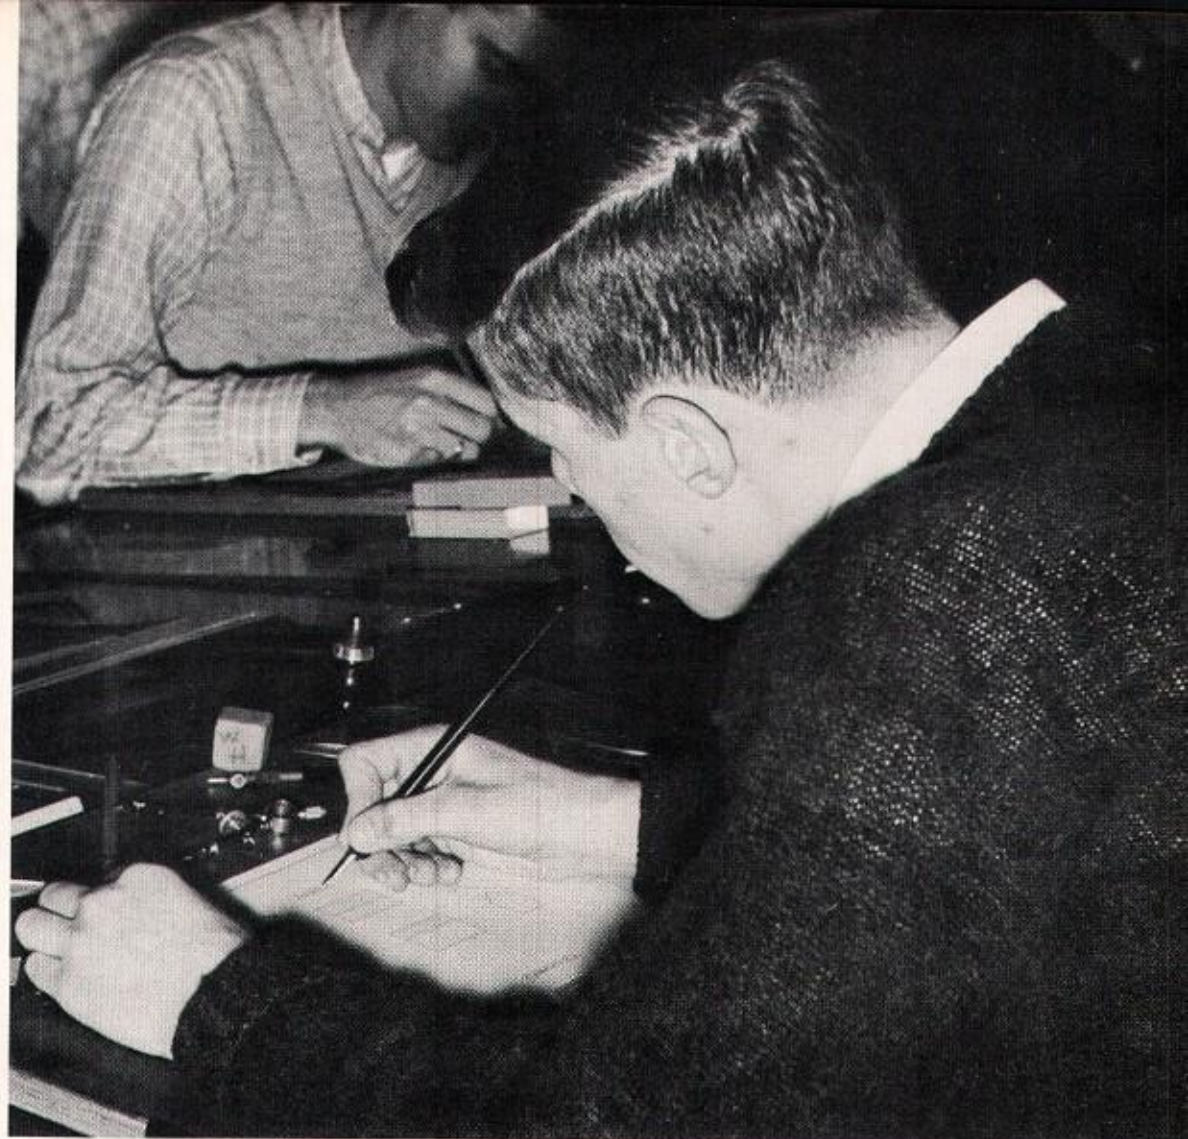

George Dunn, student director of the Band, demands attention in the split second before the baton signals a dramatic beginning.

Concentrating on Mechanical Drawing, Julian Weiss strives for neatness, exactness, and clarity.

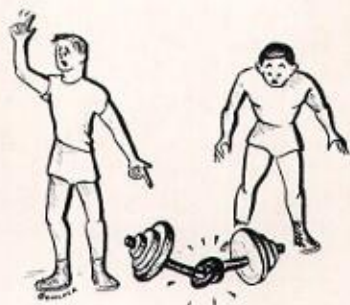

While The World Rushes Madly On

Sandy Wills, Ann Meacham, Peggy Coleman, Sally Berman cheer the team on to victory.

All the time we were so wrapped up in school happenings, the world outside was rushing madly on. Toward what, nobody was quite certain. Venezuela suffered the pangs of revolution, and received a strong new regime. In Cuba and Sumatra other rebel forces were just as active. When fall came, the world spotlight was focused on America's internal problems with the segregation problem exploding at Little Rock; with the coming of spring it had shifted to the repeated attempts of the East and West to resolve their differences in a Summit conference. The world reached a stalemate; nothing seemed to help.

Under Mr. Davis' guidance, Ned Lee successfully lifts the bar bells.

'58 Extravaganza

We plunged into the annual money-raising project sponsored by SGA and planned a different show.

Shades of Satan and his Infernal Legions! We spoke of the Devil, and, with a nasty laugh, up he popped from a cloud of steam to open the 1958 Extravaganza. Old Nick and his little helpers worked for many a week to bring to the Boys' Gym a glimpse of their warm, comfortable home.

It all started when Arthur, alone at the County Fair and feeling his years, began to reminisce. The more he thought the pleasanter his youthful years seemed, and when Mr. Beelzebub appeared and offered him his youth back for a price (his soul, of course), Arthur accepted. With his youthful vim and vigor regained, and the old gleam in his eye as well, Arthur promptly fell in love with Laurie.

When the River Styx froze, Satan produced much entertainment to detain his guests. The show was light-hearted and gay. As a matter of fact, it was so "hot" that "Speak of the Devil" was rescheduled for the following Monday night to make up for the Friday snow-out. This unheard of event resulted in many students' wandering around school on Tuesday with no homework done, a not-so-unheard-of event!

Lack of heat and electricity in the gymnasium didn't stop the final dress rehearsal. Mr. Slate and producer Stephen Middaugh give last-minute instructions.

Demonstrating a tune you can stomp and slap to are Bonnie Simmons and Mary Jean Young.

The Devil gets an eyeful: Sally Berman, Bonnie McKinlay, Toni Messitte, Karla Krahne, Sandra Wills, Betty Ann Hardy, Nancy Dyer, Ellen Kamarck, and Ann Meacham combine their talents to sing about modern mechanization.

And Graduation Day Rolls Into View

Winter struggled toward spring, the days moved steadily by, and suddenly it was the last week in March and we were being invaded! Evaluators were all over the place—sitting conspicuously inconspicuous in classrooms, poking their heads into our lockers, conducting “student-in-the-hall” inquiries, and always writing, writing, writing.

We assured ourselves that Lady Spring was definitely on her way when the Princesses for the Junior-Senior Prom were announced. Then the GED Tests were scheduled for seniors. Five mornings saw us marking with special pencils for machine scoring and heard us muttering about projects for the Science Fair.

Plans for June Week had begun to materialize over the short Easter Vacation. Seniors began in earnest to count the remaining days till graduation. No wonder our steps grew lighter and our hearts gayer—another year was behind and summer was ahead.

Miss Moore views with pleasure the silver tray awarded her by the PTA in recognition of 25 years of service to education in Montgomery.

The Spring season increased the number of social events.

Economically Sound

"Janie, I've simply got to get a new crew neck sweater to go with my new bermudas. C'mon into town with me this afternoon and help me find one." And thus begins a typical Saturday for a typical Bethesda highschooler. Or maybe a bookladen young man pops into his favorite part shop after school to pick up a spare carburetor gasket or the old jalopy that isn't performing too well. Quite casually each of us has parted with a small fortune in allowances to the merchants of Bethesda. Hundreds of times we make that quick jaunt in town, have a friendly chat while the all-important article is being wrapped, and return home, well-pleased with the day's transactions.

It's the small-town friendliness that makes shopping in Bethesda the pleasant task it so often is. Where else could we find business men who are so understanding of young people's whims and fads? After all, we've been their customers for many a year, and we might as well broadcast an illegal absence as walk into a shop during school hours. They've watched us grow from bubble-gum chewing tomboys and pigtail-pulling junior-leaguers to young men and women with much more sophisticated fads and whims! Now we constitute a good percentage of their customers, and through us the Bethesda merchants are reaching approximately 1,200 homes. We're today's casual shoppers, but we're tomorrow's regular buyers.

The Production Of A PINE TREE . . .

Marcia Lee and Thomas Deland "supervise" Editor Holland's last minute corrections of advertising copy. Their deadline was met!

requires more than the time and talent of students . . . to the many individuals who have helped create this book, the Staff extends its sincere thanks . . . to Mr. Sidney Schultz of H. G. Roebuck and Son, Inc., for supplying the answers to all our printing problems . . . to Mr. Frank MacIntyre of Zamsky Studios for his wonderful cooperation in taking our pictures . . . to Mrs. Richard Crawford of Alston Studios for working with the pictures of sophomores and juniors . . . to the home room Twigs for collecting picture fees and distributing yearbooks . . . to Robert Stephens and other student photographers for the many pictures they took of student activities . . . to Mrs. Lorraine Hatfield for handling the collection of individual payments . . . to Miss Margaret Cooke for handling the senior orders for pictures . . . to the Washington Evening Star for the picture of Bill Browning on page 93 . . . to Charles Davidson for assuming the duties of sports editor at the last minute . . . to Mrs. Elizabeth Layton for her patient guidance, her endless hours of work, and her innumerable suggestions.

Got's of Luck
to a real sweet girl. Home acts a gym. Done been a real panic! Hope we have some class
together next year.
Shirley Barnes

Margaret-Sin so glad
I met you this year -
I do hope that we have at least 1 class
together next year.

P.S. No more Miss. Piggy!

Miss. Piggy!

Magie:
It's been wonderful knowing you this year and last year too. I hope I see you next year and I hope that you're in too one of my classes this coming one too.
I wish you the very best in have, Luck and everything else. Lots of Luck Always!
